No perjury plans, prosecutors say

Dean's testimony withstanding test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III's testimony before the Senate Watergate committee and federal grand juries apparently is withstanding the test of the White House tapes.

It was learned Tuesday night that the prosecutors have no plans to charge Dean with lying when he testified about White House discussions of the Watergate break-in.

It also is known that Dean is continuing to cooperate closely with the prosecutors. He was seen entering their offices within the last couple of days.

A source, who said he believed he was familiar with the material Republican Senate leader Hugh Scott said contradicted Dean, suggested that Scott may have been mistaken.

Scott said Sunday the White House had information that could prove Dean was wrong when he said the President knew of the Watergate cover-up before March 21, 1973, the date the President has said he first learned of it.

The prosecutor's office declined comment on the reports. Scott could not be reached for comment.

Dean pleaded guilty in October to a charge of conspiracy to obstruct justice. The prosecutors agreed not to seek further charges against Dean in exchange for his cooperation.

Last July, the prosecutor's office subpoenaed the tapes of nine presidential conversations. The demand was based largely on Dean's testimony before the Watergate committee.

On Oct. 23, the White House agreed to give the tapes voluntarily to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, who subsequently turned over the Watergate portions to the prosecutors.

The White House had notified Sirica that two of the conversations sought never were recorded and that a third contained an 18½-minute gap that had obliterated all references to the Watergate break-in.

Last week, Sirica referred those three cases to special prosecutor Leon Jaworski with a recommendation he present evidence to a grand jury. Jaworski's staff began presenting the case to a grand jury on Monday.

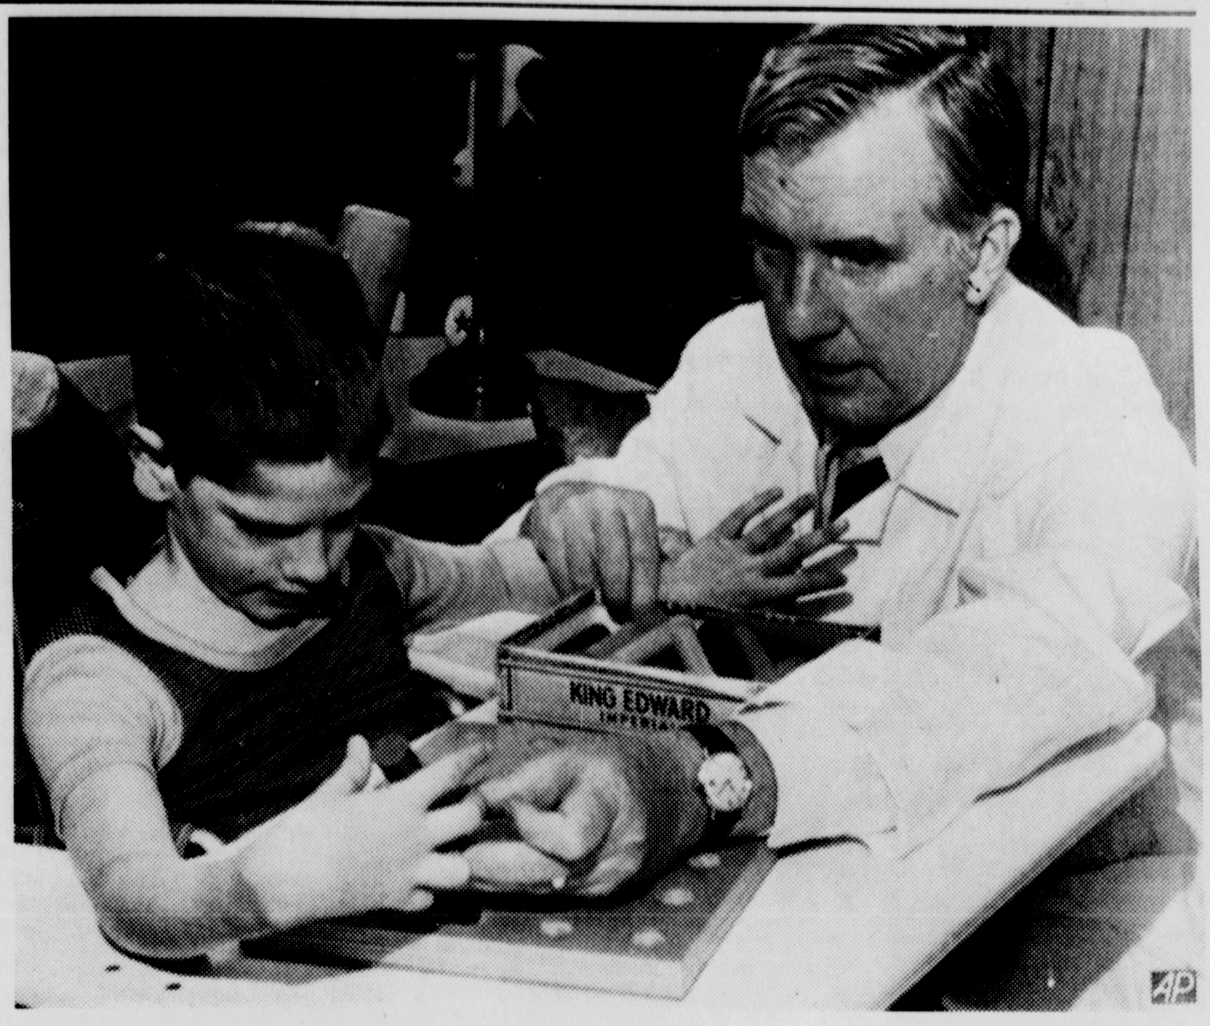

According to a memorandum filed in court last August in support of the subpoena issued by the prosecutors, the crucial meetings involving Dean occurred on Sept. 15, 1972, and March 13 and 21, 1973.

Dean said that at the Sept. 15, meeting the President congratulated him on the "good job" he had done and said he was pleased the case had "stopped with Liddy."

Dean testified that on March 13, the President told him he had approved executive clemency for Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt and that there would be no problem about raising $1 million to buy the silence of all seven defendants.

There were two meetings on March 21. All accounts agree that during the first, Dean gave the President his theory of the cover-up involving White House and presidential campaign committee officials.

At the afternoon meeting, Dean said the possibility of White House and campaign officials testifying before the grand jury was discussed and that after the session it was clear to him the cover-up would continue.

GOVERNOR AS TRAINEE — Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan helps Jimmy Long, 11, do an exercise in the Orient State Institute in Columbus, Ohio. Gov. Gilligan worked as a psychiatric aide trainee to observe the second anniversary of a program to humanize life for Ohio's 23,000 mental patients.

Nixon musters GOP supporters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House and Vice President Gerald R. Ford are sounding a positive note on President Nixon's ability to overcome Watergate despite a lack of public support from congressional Republicans.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler portrayed Nixon Tuesday as determined to serve out his term and ready to tackle national problems rather than be "consumed by Watergate."

Ziegler said Nixon "knows that he has not been involved in the wrongdoing as charged" and plans to concentrate his energies now on legislative and foreign policy matters.

Meanwhile, Ford vigorously defended Nixon at a news conference.

He pictured Nixon as "in good health mentally and physically" and said he received assurances during a one-hour, 45-minute meeting Monday that "the President was not involved" in the apparently deliberate erasure of an 18½-minute portion of a key Watergate tape.

Aside from Ford, however, there was little sign that key Republicans on Capitol Hill planned to speak out in Nixon's behalf.

Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H. who already has announced he won't seek re-election, told reporters he sees "no reason why we shouldn't rally around our President."

At a Republican Policy Committee meeting during the day, Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott repeated his contention that the White House has material available that would absolve Nixon of the charge by John W. Dean III that he was part of the Watergate cover-up.

Later, however, sources said the special Watergate prosecutor's office had not found evidence to contradict Dean's testimony before grand juries and the Senate Watergate committee.

The source also said that Scott may have been mistaken, that he believes he is familiar with the material Scott has seen and that it does not disprove Dean's testimony.

Tax breaks for big oil companies hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The controversial issues of gasoline rationing and energy conservation have taken a temporary back seat to a growing congressional demand for a change in the tax breaks given big oil.

President Nixon, in an energy message to Congress today, was expected to include his own proposal to tax excess profits by the oil companies.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said, "Our tax policy, instead of encouraging energy development in the U.S., has made the Arab nations self-sufficient." He spoke Tuesday as his investigations subcommittee wound up its second day of quizzing oil company executives on the extent of the energy crisis.

Senate Finance chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., who last month led a filibuster against emergency energy legislation because of a provision to limit excess profits by the oil industry, said he would be willing to support tax legislation that would induce the companies to turn their attention to exploration and development at home.

The emergency bill, which would give President Nixon power to order gas rationing and mandatory energy conservation measures, remained stalled by the continuing threat of a filibuster by Republicans and oil-state senators who oppose the excess profits provision. Long said he would not join the filibuster this time, but other senators vowed to stop the bill from ever coming to a vote.

Jackson, who is the bill's floor manager, said a vote on shutting off debate would come early next week.

After executives from the seven leading oil firms told his subcommittee that the United States would require up to 15 years to become self-sufficient in energy, even with the incentive of high oil prices, Jackson said a rollback in the price of crude oil was called for. "This is a completely different tune than we've been hearing on the floor of the Senate — that taking the lid off price would result in more oil."

Two of the seven executives predicted gasoline prices would increase by 10 to 15 cents per gallon this year.

Meanwhile, Cities Service Co. became the first of the large oil companies to report its profits for the fourth quarter of 1973, when the impact of the energy crisis began to be felt.

Cities Service said its preliminary profits for the last quarter of 1973 were $42.1 million, an increase of almost 50 per cent over the same period in 1972.

On the subject of tax reform, Jackson said that for starters the "foreign tax credit has got to be chopped off." Under that credit, oil companies can deduct from their U.S. taxes royalties and other payments to foreign governments.

At a hearing of the Senate Finance Committee, Mortimer Caplin, former Internal Revenue Commissioner, and Jerome Kurtz, former Treasury tax expert, agreed with Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., that Congress should consider cutting back or ending such tax benefits.

Ribicoff, a member of both the Finance Committee and the investigations subcommittee, said that last year Texaco paid federal taxes at a rate of 1.7 per cent, compared with the average 48 per cent rate paid by most American companies. Texaco vice president Annon M. Card argued that Ribicoff was looking at only "a portion of the tax picture" and said that in 1971 Texaco paid worldwide taxes amounting to 50 per cent of net income.

The American Automobile Association said the number of gasoline stations closing early and limiting fuel purchases increased during the past week.

Bonus bill, land restoration eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State representatives scheduled votes today on bills enabling payment of the Vietnam veterans' bonus and requiring restoration of lands damaged by oil and gas drilling.

The latter probably will touch off the first floor debate this year on the energy crisis, and test the lawmakers' feelings about the environment in view of the fuel shortage.

Rep. Robert J. Boggs, D-97 Jefferson, introduced the bill last May, and it has been in the House Rules Committee since July 10, long before the energy crisis became a household concern in Ohio.

The bill, patterned to some degree after Ohio's tough strip mining law which that industry now wants to relax, requires the posting of bond to assure that owners and operators of wells reclaim drilled land to meet prescribed standards.

Rep. Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, predicted passage of his bill that spells out the right of Ohio's Vietnam era veterans to receive double their bonuses, otherwise to be paid in cash up to a maximum $500, if they elect to spend them for educational benefits.

The measure is needed to implement the $300 million bonus authorized by voters in the Nov. 6 election. Passage of the immediately-effective emergency bill would permit payments within the next few weeks, provided there is no snag in administrative procedures.

In floor action, the House voted 60-27 to streamline laws that say Ohioans may petition their government through the procedures of initiative and referendum.

Among other things, the bill states that a petition may not be invalidated if signatures are obtained in more than one county. It also does away with a requirement that the signer must designate on the scene his ward and

TGE still plaguing area swine farmers

Many Fayette County pork producers who haven't had to deal with transmissible gastroentiritis (TGE) in several years are feeling the effects of the latest serious outbreak of the disease.

Hundreds of newborn pigs have been wiped out by the disease, which has hit Ohio's top pork-producing counties the heardest.

TGE is nothing new to hog farmers, and in fact is present on various hog lots every year. But this year's outbreak is much more widespread than usual, threatening significant portions of this year's hog crop.

TGE has historically been noted as running six-year cycles. The largest outbreaks occur every five or six years. Older hogs who have had the disease build up an immunity to it and pass this immunity on to their offspring. However, this immunity generally weakens after five or six years, according to Dr. Harry E. Goldstein, state animal industry chief.

JOHN GRUBER, Fayette County extension agent, emphasized that TGE is nothing new or unusual to pork producers, but is occurring on many more farms than usual this year. He added that some farmers have had to contend with it every year for several years.

This year's outbreak is not considered "typical TGE", since the symptoms are not exactly the same as in the past.

In the past, if one group of sows on a farm contracted the disease, it affected almost all of the sows sooner or later. This year, however, cases of sows with TGE have been noted right next to unaffected sows.

The heavy ice and snow that blanketed Fayette County and most of the rest of Ohio the first two weeks of January is believed to have contributed to the outbreak. Flocks of starlings were driven indoors by the ice to find food, and found plenty available in hog barns, Gruber explained. They brought the disease to the barns and got it started.

ALTHOUGH the thaw of the past week has raised hope among some farms that the starlings will spread out, Gruber cautioned that the birds are

President sends energy proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today to reduce the tax breaks available to U.S. oil companies operating overseas and to ease the demands of present clean air laws.

The President sent Congress a new energy message urging passage of the emergency legislation previously proposed and adding some new proposals.

Nixon's new measure would, if adopted:

—Eliminate the 22 per cent depletion allowance granted U.S. companies producing oil abroad.

—Reduce the amount of foreign income tax which U.S. oil companies can credit directly against their taxes in the United States.

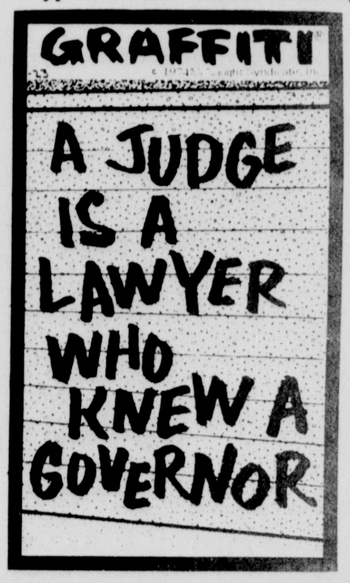

—Extend for two more years the emission standards now applying to 1975 automobiles.

—Remove the present requirement for a 90 per cent reduction in nitrogen oxide emissions in 1976 cars.

—Extend the legal deadline for meeting clean air standards in metropolitan areas which otherwise would need "unreasonable transportation controls."

—Permit temporary relaxation of clean air deadlines and requirements for power plants and other sources which cannot get an adequate supply of clean energy.

—Speed the licensing and construction of atomic power plants by encouraging standardized plant designs, establishing an inventory of approved locations for future power plants and separating the questions of site approval from reactor licensing.

Library board wins tax appeal judgment

The Ohio Board of Tax Appeals has allocated a total of $90,541.17 from the 1974 Fayette County classified property tax fund to the Carnegie Public Library Board of Trustees for 1974 operations.

The judgment was reached by the Ohio Board of Tax Appeals after a hearing on an appeal filed by the Carnegie Public Library Board of Trustees against the Fayette Budget Commission and the Fayette County Board of Commissioners.

The appeal was filed Sept. 21 after the Fayette County Budget Commission allocated the library board $60,822 of the $95,000 estimated 1974 classified property tax fund.

In its notice of appeal, the Carnegie Public Library Board of Trustees had requested a sum of $95,137.04 for its 1974 operations.

The matter was submitted to the Board of Tax Appeals on the notice of appeal and the testimony and evidence was presented at a hearing Dec. 14 in Columbus.

ACCORDING TO the Board of Tax Appeals, upon consideration of the matter, it appeared that in the September-October distribution of the classified property tax the library board was given, in addition to the amount that it was originally allocated, the sum of $16,000 in residue. It further stated that sometime during the first part of December the library board of trustees transferred $22,000 from the general fund to its building and repair fund. The transfer was made under the provisions of the Ohio Revised Code.

From the testimony and evidence, the Board of Tax Appeals judged that the library board, prior to the $22,000 transfer of funds, had about $29,803 in its building and repair fund. After the transfer, it would therefore have

Mideast arms race worrisome

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Scarcely noticed in a blizzard of developments, a secondstring arms race around the Arab East periphery makes for melancholy commentary on long-range hopes for tranquility in that sensitive region.

The Middle East ordinarily is complex enough. The world oil crisis made matters vastly more complicated, and what goes on in the Persian Gulf area might look to a detached observer at times as if dictated by some sort of demented logic.

The whole Middle East long has been vulnerable to the perils of a superpower showdown. After each explosion, Moscow proceeds to rearm Syria and Egypt and Washington to rearm Israel.

Yet there is a suspicion Moscow used its leverage as a source of arms to squeeze Syria into at least listening to settlement proposals. There's a similar suspicion that the United States used access to American arms as an arm-twisting device in Israel. There is even a Tel Aviv report that Israel is producing electronic weaponry to reduce her dependency on U.S. arms.

For all of this apparent fear of arms buildups, however, an odd picture is unfolding of spirited Western competition to peddle arms in the Arab East. Lately British, French and Americans have been prowling the Persian Gulf area seeking arms deals with sheiks and princes. This began before there was any thought of a settlement on the war fronts, even before the October war began.

The French and British both landed arms contracts in the Arabian peninsula before the outbreak of the October war. Now French diplomacy is highly and competitively visible in Saudi Arabia in the wake of a new deal to deliver weaponry plus industrial equipment and knowhow in return for a guaranteed flow of oil.

The United States professes anxiety about "maintaining the arms balance" in the Middle East, but Americans also are heavily involved in the competition to sell arms in the Gulf area.

The Arab East's northern tier is made up of two potentially powerful elements, one with large amounts of Russian arms, the other possessing large amounts of U.S. military hardware.

South of that tier there is the spectacle, for example, of Abu Dhabi, a tiny desert emirate of 80,000, spending oil riches for a swarm of French Mirage jets, perhaps 32 in all. Abu Dhabi has an army of 8,000 with Pakistani, Jordanian and British officers, an unlikely match for any strong enemy.

Deaths, Funerals

Clarence M Mitchell

Clarence M. Mitchell, 69, of 635 Harrison St., died at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in his home.

Born in Ross County, Mr. Mitchell moved to Washington C.H. 11 years ago from Sabina. He was a retired independent truck driver.

He is survived by his wife, Margaret; a son, Clarence Jr., of Dayton; a brother, Lester, of Sabina; two half-brothers, Harold Morris, of Sabina, and Raymond Morris, of near Washington C.H.; three sisters, Mrs. Elsie Mitchell, Mrs. Effie Croft and Mrs. Vica Sword, all of Sabina; a half-sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Diedrich, of Tipp City; a step-son, Darrell Leisure, 240 Curtis St., and one granddaughter.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday in the Parrett Funeral Home with the Rev. Robert Kline, pastor of the Gregg Street Church of Christ in Christian Union, officiating. Burial will be in Sabina Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Hans Conried suffers stroke

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Actor Hans Conried was reported in fair condition at Mount Carmel East hospital here early today after collapsing last night following a performance at a suburban dinner theatre.

Conried reportedly suffered a stroke.

The actor was appearing in the play, "How the Other Half Lives."

Beef prices rising again

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

It's budget stretching time again for millions of Americans who are finding beef prices on the rise after a brief spell of stability.

An Associated Press survey shows beef prices at the retail level rose 10 and 20 cents a pound on most items in the past two weeks.

The boosts reflect higher wholesale costs — up about 25 or 30 per cent since the beginning of December. People in the industry say the higher wholesale costs are the result of production cutbacks that stemmed from last year's freeze.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, reporting on the Consumer Price Index, said Tuesday that retail food costs during 1973 rose 20.1 per cent. The December boost was three-tenths of one per cent.

At Shaw's supermarket chain in New England, lean hamburger was selling for $1.29 a pound this week. Last week, the price was $1.09 a pound and a year ago it was 99 cents. That's an increase of about 30 per cent over one year.

Eugene Owens, the meat buyer for Shaw's, blamed wholesale price rises. "It's been nothing but up every day for six weeks," he said. "We held as long as we could. And from what we can tell, it looks like prices will hold at the higher level for the next two or three months."

A spokesman for Fisher Foods Inc. in Cleveland, Ohio, said that in the past three weeks ground beef went from 88 to 98 cents a pound. He said the wholesale prices leveled off this week, but added: "Everything we've heard nationally is that prices are going to go up until spring."

Library appeal

$51,803, the Board of Tax Appeals noted.

"With respect to the actual need for the enlargement of the present library the Board of Tax Appeals finds that such an actual need exists and that the library trustees therefore had the authority to make the transfer," the document issued by the board said.

The document further stated that, "giving effect to this determination and also taking into consideration the actual needs of the library for 1974 operations, the Board of Tax Appeals finds that the appellant (the library board) has actual needs of $90,541.17 from the classified property tax fund for its 1974 operations."

Representing the library board were Omar A. Schwart, a Washington C.H. attorney, and Norton R. Webster, a Columbus attorney. The Fayette County Budget Commission and Fayette County Commissioners were represented by Robert L. Simpson, former assistant county prosecuting attorney.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has predicted that the Arab oil embargo will be lifted before the projected 40-day disengagement of Israeli and Egyptian forces is completed.

"We have had every reason to believe that success in the negotiations would mark a major step toward ending the oil embargo. We would therefore think that failure to end the embargo in a reasonable time would be highly inappropriate," Kissinger said Tuesday at his first news conference since returning from the Middle East.

Asked whether he believed the embargo would be lifted after the 40-day disengagement period, Kissinger said, "I think in more ambitious terms."

Then he was asked whether he thinks it will be ended sooner and Kissinger replied, "Yes."

Kissinger stressed that the United States did not commit itself to new obligations in the Mideast talks.

"Both sides found it easier to accept a U.S. proposal as to the limitation of their forces than to accept limitations which seemed to be demanded by the other side," Kissinger said.

This "does not constitute a U.S. guarantee, it was a device by which the United States made it possible to convey to the other their acceptance of certain limitations on the armaments," the secretary of state said.

However, Kissinger acknowledged that the United States will be involved in the Middle East if the agreement breaks down.

While Kissinger explained in his usual scholarly fashion the U.S. role in the Middle East, he was obviously irritated when asked what he knew about the activities of the plumbers, the White House intelligence group.

Kissinger denied that he misled the Senate Foreign Relations Committee when he testified about the plumbers last fall.

But he said he was aware that David R. Young Jr., who worked for him at the White House before he was transferred to the plumbers, investigated the leak at the National Security Council, which Kissinger still heads.

MINOR INJURY — A 19-year-old student at the Fayette Progressive School received a fractured collar bone when she was struck by this car on Temple Street Wednesday morning. Donna Smalley, Bloomingburg-New Holland Rd., was treated and released from Fayette Memorial Hospital. After striking the girl, the auto spun around in the street and struck a parked car on the other side.

Auto injures young student near school

A 19-year-old Fayette County girl received minor injuries Wednesday morning when she was struck by an automobile on Temple Street at Washington Junior High School. She was treated and released from Fayette Memorial Hospital after receiving treatment for a fractured clavicle.

Donna Smalley, 19, Bloomingburg-New Holland Rd., who is a student at the Fayette County Progressive School, was struck as she rushed across the street to greet a friend after arriving for school at 9:45 a.m.

THE DRIVER of the auto, Jay D. Gordon, 21, Rt. 1, Washington C.H. and his passenger James W. Baughn III, 21, Palmer Rd., were en route to Municipal Court where they were to appear on charges of possession of marijuana.

The driver swerved in an attempt to avoid the girl, but was unable to do so. The car then spun in the street and collided with a parked car on the other side.

No one has been cited as yet, and city police are continuing their investigation.

Ironically, under normal circumstances neither the girl nor the two young men would have been on the street at the time of the accident. School begins at 9:30 a.m., but the bus was running late. The trial was scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m., but as they were driving here from Columbus, the defendants encountered a flat tire putting them behind schedule.

The trial, resulting from charges filed by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department July 15, has been postponed at the request of the defendants.

Sponsoring Rep. Michael G. Oxley, R-82 Findlay, said the Senate-passed bill is needed "to streamline and bring up to date the initiative and referendum procedures here in Ohio." The bill now goes to the governor.

The House also added its approval to Senate bills revising licensing procedures for podiatrists and revamping the makeup of the State Parole Board. Passed and sent to the Senate were proposals revising fees for the handling of security interests in personal property, and allowing the state to charge six per cent interest on sales and use tax bills due for 30 days or longer.

Nine new bills were introduced in the House, including a proposal by Rep. Donna Pope, R-12 Parma, strengthening laws against indecent exposure. The bill is needed, she said, because of an omission in the drafting of Ohio's new criminal code.

Another new House bill, by Rep. James Mueller, D-74 Chesterland, would take away from the newly created Ohio Power Siting Commission he authority to designate the locations of new plants and utility lines. Mueller said he wants local authorities to make such decisions.

Senators acted on one bill at their brief floor session. They passed and sent to the House a bill that allows county commissioners as well as cities to force homeowners near new sewer lines to tap into the facilities.

Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, offered a new Senate measure that would allow police and firemen to purchase military credit toward their retirement.

still likely to search for food in barns, as they have already found them to be good food sources.

Disease control in hog lots has always been a big problem for farmers, especially when sows are farrowing. TGE and other diseases are easily spread when sows are nursing and caring for their young.

Originally concentrated in Fayette, Madison and Clark counties, the TGE outbreak has reached into Clinton, Highland and other neighboring counties. It has been spotted all over the state, although that is not unusual. Southern Ohio counties, however, are feeling most of the burden of the increased incidence of TGE.

Ohio faces another turn to colder weather with a movement of a cold front into the state Tuesday night, with showers along and following the front. Showers can change to snow flurries in the northern counties today, the Weather Service reported.

Temperatures ahead of the front were in the 50s over much of the state and even registered in the low 60s in the extreme south Tuesday night. Colder air spreading in from the northwest dropped readings into the 30s in the northwestern counties early Wednesday and most areas of the state will see steady or falling temperatures today.

Reports indicated most rainfall amounts to around a half inch or less early Wednesday.

On the early morning map the cold front extended from the northeast to the southwest corners of the state and the front is expected to move on eastward to the east of the Appalachians today. Showers and flurries will end from the west as the front moves out and some clearing is likely in the northwestern counties by late afternoon.

Sunny skies on Thursday will see afternoon temperatures in the upper 30s north and in the 40s over the rest of the state.

The weather will be mild Friday through Sunday with a chance of showers. Highs will be in the upper 40s and the 50s. Lows will be in the 30s.

Preliminary plans launched for 1974 Home Show event

Preparations for the 1974 Fayette County Home Show were launched at an initial planning meeting held Wednesday in the Washington Savings Bank.

Steve Reisinger, chairman of the 1974 event, said this year's Home Show will be held the weekend of April 5-6-7 in the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairground.

The Home Show committee elected Rick Stinson, of the Dayton Power and Light Co., here, as co-chairman for the 1974 event.

The committee also agreed to follow the same booth setup procedure as has been custom in the past; announced that prizes will be awarded every half-hour during the event and announced that one major prize will be awarded at the end of each three days.

Information will be forwarded to past exhibitors. The prospective exhibitors will be given until March 13 to reserve booth space they held at last year's show.

Stock prices up slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market clung to modest gains today and appeared to be drifting.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was up 2.69, little changed from a half-hour earlier but half what it was near the opening. Advances led declines on the New York Stock Exchange by 7 to 4.

Analysts said the market's early strength was a continuation of Tuesday's nearly 9-point rise in the Dow, which was prompted by optimistic forecasts of an early end to the Arab oil embargo.

Teleprompter, which has been up recently since a government study recommending less regulation of the cable-television industry, fell 1⅜ to 6⅝ in active trading.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index at noon was up .63 at 96.01, while the NYSE composite index was up .03 at 51.59.

Kissinger denies story

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC News says it has learned that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told two high-level Israeli ministers he believes President Nixon will leave office within the next six months.

NBC later said Kissinger termed the report an "outrageous lie."

NBC did not give its sources for the report.

New chance for the checkoff

Quite a bit has been made of the Internal Revenue Service's moves to simplify this year's income tax forms and instructions. No longer will taxpayers have to list names and dates in claiming medical deductions, or to name groups to which they make charitable contributions. A separate schedule for reporting dividends and interest will not be required. And so on, all in the name of making it easier to fill out the form.

That is welcome news, but another change is of greater significance. This has to do with the checkoff system whereby the taxpayer may designate a dollar to be used in financing presidential elections. Not only can this be done with regard to the 1976 election, but also taxpayers who did not check off their dollar last year may do so this time around.

The checkoff system was a bust when first tried last year, but this new impetus should help to get it off the ground. That would be heartening, for this method of contributing could do much to ease the campaign financing problem.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

The Brotherhood of Eternal Love

One may suppose that it began in all innocence. Toward the end of his life, Aldous Huxley, who had moved from London to Southern California many years before, wrote about "expanding" the consciousness through the use of mysterious Mexican drugs. In his "Brave New World" he had talked, satirically, about calming people with "half a gram of soma," and here he had fallen, in his late middle age, for his own mechanized — or should it be chemicalized? — Utopia.

Aldous Huxley obviously meant no harm. Nor, we may grant, did Dr. Timothy Leary when he confused Huxley's mind expansion with mind blowing.

Timothy Leary, dearie, was not weary in attempted well-doing. In October, 1966, in partnership with Dr. Richard Alpert, he incorporated a tax-exempt "religious corporation" in the State of California. He called his organization the Brotherhood of Eternal Love.

BLISS WAS IT in that dawn of 1966 to be alive to tune in, turn on, and drop out, maybe by accident from an LSD-induced fall from a second-story window. The stuff uncorked by Dr. Leary was far more potent for hallucination than Aldous Huxley's half a gram of soma. The unfortunate doctor, with the help of the Weathermen, escaped from jail and high-tailed for Algeria for a rendezvous with Eldridge Cleaver, the revolutionary Panther, but eventually he was coralled by the law again and returned to the clink.

His Brotherhood of Eternal Love, meanwhile, had come under the investigation of Sen. James O. Eastland's Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. The senator had no call to be doing religious research, but it seems that one of the tenets of the Brotherhood of Eternal Love's peculiar faith was large-scale passport fraud. A check of 250 Brotherhood passport files has revealed 130 cases of fraudulent use of passports.

As it has turned out, the chief business of the traveling Brotherhood has been dope peddling. Originally it was marijuana. But in 1969 members of the Brotherhood began specializing in concocting "orange sunshine" (LSD) at a laboratory outside San Francisco. Enough powder to make 14 million LSD tablets was seized from the Brotherhood just last year, which has led the Eastland subcommittee to say Timothy Leary's "religion" had become the largest manufacturer and distributor of LSD in the world.

When "orange sunshine" began scaring the kids, whose bad trips were becoming altogether too frequent, the pressure was on the Brotherhood to turn to hashish smuggling. This is where the passport frauds really helped.

With or without legal passports the brothers went everywhere. Three of them traveled to Afghanistan, where they purchased 125 pounds for $15 a pound. They smuggled it to California, where it sold for $900 a pound. This, so the Eastland report tells us, was the first of nearly 24 tons of hashish smuggled into the U.S. from Afghanistan, Lebanon, and India by the Brotherhood.

BIG BUSINESS. And what a business. The taste for marijuana has unquestionably led to the yearning for stronger stuff. In 1968, hashish seizure in the U.S. was a mere 534 pounds. In 1972, the seizures had grown to 30,000 pounds. The presumption is that for every pound taken by the police, 10 pounds get through. Three hundred thousand pounds of hashish would generate millions of hashish highs.

And beyond hashish there is liquid hashish. Two or three drops of this can have horrible mind-blowing consequences.

A lot of people doubt that marijuana and its stronger derivatives do any irreparable harm. Dr. Olav Braenden, director of the UN Narcotics Laboratory in Geneva, who testified before Eastland, contradicts this notion. He finds that even small amounts of marijuana build up in the fatty tissues, in the brain, and in the gonads, very much like DDT. Fed considerable amounts of the stuff, animals have produced offspring with deformities—in a manner, so Eastland says, that "resembles the damage done by thalidomide."

Eastland speaks of "playing genetic Russian roulette." What a business for an organization called the Brotherhood of Eternal Love.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

THURSDAY, JAN. 24

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Keep all things "in line," but avoid anxiety or worrisome anticipation of trouble. Conflict of interests in certain areas? You should enjoy the challenge.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Don't enter activities in which you are not particularly interested just because someone else wants to. There are some suggestions you should reject.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

You may not progress as rapidly as you wish, may receive fewer gains than you expected. But keep at it — with patience — and you will achieve much.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

You may overreach your mark now because of anxiety or miscalculation. Try to avoid this by taking things in stride and, in all things, follow well-tested procedures.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Good solar influences. Plan a well-balanced program and be thoughtful in making decisions. Weigh all offerings astutely.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

You may encounter some baffling, even irritating situations. Regard them as part of the overall pattern and reflect carefully before jumping to conclusions.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Don't overlook definite obligations because of a desire to "try something new." Emphasize the Libran's innate stability.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Don't wait too long before attacking a problem or handling an assignment, or day's end will find you in a state of "nerves," trying to offset your procrastination.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Put fervor and ardent ambition into this fine day, and stress optimism. That is often all that is needed to insure success. Better than average opportunities.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Wait for cues before launching any project. If not on guard, you could get into difficult situations or needless complications.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Stress your foresightedness now in order to prevent witless errors. Don't leap at ideas or suggestions made by those who can misguide through a pleasing manner.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

A day in which to spread your wings a bit — if time and obligations permit. Staying in a rut never helped anyone.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a fine intellect, a gregarious personality and extremely lofty ambitions. You have a vivid imagination and have a high regard for artistry and education in all their forms. Dignity and grace are strong in your Sign, but there are also tendencies toward excessive volubility. These should be curbed. You would make an excellent lecturer, journalist, linquist, teacher, interior decorator or writer.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

At the last council meeting, I raised an objection on the raise that they awarded the Municipal Court judge. They informed me due to the new law passed they had no other choice. My reason for objecting was that the judge was not a resident of this town. But the city solicitor informed me that Mr. Winegardner established his practice here in 1939, and that because he pays his taxes, buys his auto tags and votes here that makes him a resident.

There are other professionals and business people the same but aren't allowed to vote in town because they live out of the city limits. I was told that he only used his Columbus address for sleeping only. So I questioned them on the municipal court cost for last year. As the judge's salary was only $6,000 and he felt that he should have more. I was told to check it out with the auditor. This I did, here is the rundown of that court's expense.

Judges' salary, $6,000; clerk, $6,261.04; deputy clerk, $4,267.44; deputy clerk, $3,361.92; deputy clerk, $3,000; another clerk, $962.65, clerk typist, $1,178.78; acting judge's salary, $1,947.05. That's almost one third of the judge's salary. It has cost the city more for one clerk than the judge. That's a total $19,031.83 for clerks, another $1,947.05, which comes to $20,978 and with the judge's wages it is $26,978.88.

This is just to run the court that doesn't include the deputy clerk in Jeffersonville and the bailiff. The judge in the past stated that he ran an efficient court. I wonder.

Brokerage firm closing doors

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street, battered for the past year by a series of financial problems, is absorbing the news of a new casulty.

The brokerage house, controlled by Texas multimillionaire H. Ross Perot, said Monday it would go out of business as soon as it could sell its 143 branch offices and other assets.

"WHAT NEXT? INFLATION, THE MEAT SHORTAGE, THE DOLLAR CRISIS---"

Hal Boyle . . Child power proves helpful

by BOB HARING
Associated Press Writer

Next he'll be big enough to be trusted with the power mower and Dear Old Dad can add a summer of no grass-cutting to the winter of no snow-shoveling and the fall of no leaf-raking.

This is the summit sighted when mother first announces that the first-born cleared the light snow from the sidewalk by himself for the first time.

Soon his excitement at being allowed to shovel the snow by himself, his thrill at being trusted with the growling mower will fade. The joy of manly chores dims with the arrival of interest in sports or girls — or both — or the higher motive of performing for pay the tasks his parents once granted grudingly as a reward for ascending boyhood.

In fairness, be it noted that such plateaus are not exclusively male domain. Girls may not pursue snow-shoveling or grass-cutting — although if that's their pleasure let 'em — but they follow similar trails through baby-sitting and dishwashing. The pig-tailed cutie who begged for the honor of dish-washing at 8 wails with homework, colds, urgent telephone calls and approaching paralysis when offered that chance at 15.

If a man is lucky, his supply of sons may provide years of relief from sidewalk and lawn.

It is a wise father who encourages the toddler to trail his big brother into the cold armed with a toy shovel and a willing spirit of imitation.

If there is a rule to such things, it is that the second son will start earlier than the first. And the third earlier still.

But the flame which burns earlier dies sooner and the boy who starts his snow removal career at 6 will weary of that job that many years earlier.

Possibly interest may be spurred in its declining moments by rotating the task. When two boys are equally capable of performing a chore, the one who's being honored gets designated — that sort of honor system psychologically gets more snow removed faster than a process which selects for the task the boy who's been least good most recently.

Among boys, tasks must be rotated though, and not shared.

The snow it takes one boy one hour to shovel takes two boys two hours.

Or, as the wise old men of the Ozark hills declared long ago:

One boy's a hand, two boys is half a hand and three boys ain't no hand at all.

HAL BOYLE IS ILL.

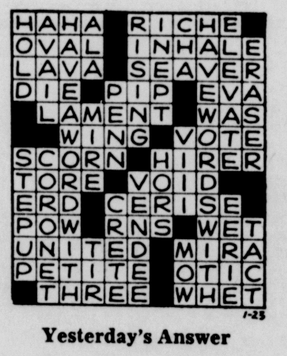

The right whale's breeding area is protected by the Argentine government but each time they leave for their southern feeding grounds they must evade the guns of whalers not bound by any pact.

Humans can't take all credit for group sex

DEAR ABBY: A Mr. A.W. Lyons of Prospect, Ky., wrote to say that man is the only animal that practices group sex. He is mistaken. Probably the best known example is the California sea hare.

Sea hares have a complete set of both male and female sex organs, and can assume either role. In laboratory studies, sea hares have been observed copulating in groups; as many as eight have copulated in a complete circle for as long as three days!

So, please pass this on to Mr. Lyons and your readers. We know of at least one other animal besides man that practices group sex. And wouldn't you know it would have to happen in California!

RICHARD JOSSLIN, Ph.d.

DEAR Dr. J.: The orgy you cite is no secret. It's recorded in the Natural History of Marine Animals. And by the way, Jane Goodall, who lived for ten years among wild chimpanzees while she studied them, reported that a female chimp named "Flo" had a battalion of suitors standing in line for her favors.

DEAR ABBY: I'm glad you told that 17-year-old girl to save herself for marriage. She said she'd heard that most fellows don't care if the girl they marry is a virgin or not.

I am 16, and I have made up my mind that on my wedding night I am going to be able to say to my husband, "Yes, Darling, YOU are the first!"

WAITING IN SEATTLE

DEAR WAITING: Lovely. And someday you may want to say, "And the first shall be the last."

DEAR ABBY: "Alone and Crying's" story was my story. I too loved my first husband with all my heart until one day he told me he no longer wanted the responsibility of marriage. As it turned out, he wanted the responsibility of another woman.

I also cried and begged and kissed him while he stood there "cold and unfeeling like a statue with his hand in his pockets."

Your advice, "quit begging and prepare to make a new life for yourself because good luck often comes disguised as disaster," was the most precious statement you ever wrote.

A year after my divorce I met the most wonderful man in the world. He is 100 times the man my first husband was. My salvation was getting involved with a good church Nazarene and through its activities came my good luck.

Please print this to let "Alone and Crying" know that it's not the end of the world for her. If I could make it, so can she.

LUCKY IN VANCOUVER

DEAR LUCKY: Here's your letter. I hope it's an inspiration to others who've been dealt a low blow.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Jan. 23, the 23rd day of 1974. There are 342 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1973, President Nixon announced an accord in the Vietnam war, with a cease-fire to begin on Jan. 27.

On this date:

In 1799, French troops captured the Italian city of Naples.

In 1920, the Dutch refused to surrender ex-Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany to the Allies for punishment has a war criminal.

In 1943, in World War II, British troops entered the North African city of Tripoli.

In 1932, Franklin Roosevelt announced he was a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

In 1968, North Korea seized the U.S. Navy ship Pueblo and held the 83 crewmen as spies.

Thought for today: It matters not how a man dies, but how he lives — Samuel Johnson, English scholar, 1709-1784.

Rule out foul play in death of girl, 8

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Authorities have ruled out foul play in the death of a retarded, eight-year-old girl found in a vacant downtown building Monday, but said further tests would be necessary to pinpoint cause of death.

The body of Jennie Teresa Whyte of Cincinnati was found on the second story of the building by six teenagers. She had been missing nine days, police said.

An autopsy revealed she had died 24-48 hours earlier. Her body was badly dehydrated and she had not eaten in days, police said.

NEW YORK (AP) — Bad news for space buffs: The CBS, NBC and ABC television networks say they aren't planning live coverage of next month's return of the Skylab 3 astronauts from their record stay in space.

Unless there's a sudden change of mind, it'll be the first time in 19 of this nation's manned space flights that the networks have turned thumbs down on live coverage of the now-familiar splashdown.

They've missed only one — and not intentionally — since Dec. 16, 1965, when their tradition of live coverage of space homecomings began with the return of the Gemini 6 astronauts.

They had planned live coverage of the Gemini 8 splashdown in 1966, but were blanked out when the spacecraft had a serious malfunction and had to make an emergency landing in the Pacific, far from the eyes of the television camera.

Although a space agency spokesman says the networks indicated to him the "costs of coverage" were the primary reason for not televising the return of Skylab 3 live, two networks deny this.

ABC and CBS say the estimated $250,000 to $300,000 cost of live network pool coverage wasn't a factor. NBC declined to say whether it was.

All say it simply is a matter of news judgement. They'd rather use their time, manpower and money on other major stories they now feel are more important than live coverage of the Skylab 3 return.

If all goes as planned, the Skylab 3 astronauts, who roared off into space Nov. 16, are scheduled to return to earth Feb. 8 at 11:14 a.m. EDT.

The space agency says they'll splash down in the Pacific Ocean about 250 miles southwest of San Diego and be picked up by men and aircraft from the helicopter carrier USS New Orleans.

Unlike the previous 19 homecomings from space, no equipment for satelliting live or videotape pictures of the astronauts' return will be on the carrier, the networks say.

But their television teams, of course, will be aboard the ship with other newsmen and will videotape the splashdown and recovery operations and the ceremonies welcoming the astronauts home.

If no major delays develop during all this, a Navy aircraft will fly the videotape to San Diego for pickup by the networks, hopefully in time for their regular evening news programs.

The next manned U.S. space flight isn't scheduled until July 1975. It'll involve not only our astronauts, but also those of Russia.

Tire firms seeking end to controls

WASHINGTON (AP)—Contending the energy crisis is causing a decline in sales, tire company executives asked the Cost of Living Council Tuesday to lift price controls from the industry.

B.F. Goodrich President Patrick C. Ross aid the industry is faced with an expected 4.5 per cent drop in sales this year and noted that tire shipments in December were off 10 per cent from a year earlier.

He said the main causes were the slowdown in auto sales, the gasoline shortage and reduced highway speeds.

"If the energy crisis were a compelling consideration in the decontrol of the automobile industry, it should be even more so in the case of the tire and inner tube industry," Ross said.

The council has granted the tire companies a two-step increase since the Phase 4 price controls program began. It estimates that price increases sought by eight tire companies would total $209 million.

Earlier, the director of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., Edward F. Carter, said his company estimates that tire material costs will rise 50 per cent by mid-year over 1972 costs, largely because of higher oil prices.

He said from six to seven gallons of oil are needed to manufacture a tire, including four to five gallons of raw materials and two gallons for energy.

B.F. Goodrich has proposed a price increase of 4.86 per cent and Firestone is seeking a price hike of 4.45 per cent. Ross said that although Goodrich earnings were up in 1973, they were not adequate. While the government's price controls have helped keep down tire prices, labor and material costs have not been adequately restrained, he indicated.

Guilty plea made in embezzlement

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A 68-year-old former newspaper promotions manager has turned state's witness by changing his plea to guilty in connection with the embezzling of $161,066 from a charity fund.

Stanley Dahlman, who was fired from The Cincinnati Post last fall when the discrepancies surfaced, earlier pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

His attorney said Dahlman would make restitution of $85,000.

His secretary Mrs. Delores Haynes, 40, and her husband, Everett, 53, have also been indicted in the disappearance of Post-Firemen's Mile of Dimes funds between 1970 and 1973.

DR. AND MRS. L.M. TARBILL

'Open house' is planned for golden anniversary

Dr. and Mrs. L.M. Tarbill of 25 Crest Ridge Drive, New Holland, will observe their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday.

"Open house" will be held at their home from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday for all their relatives, family and friends.

Dr. and Mrs. Tarbill are the parents of one son, Dr. Dean Tarbill, also of New Holland, and one daughter, Mrs. Roger (Peggy) Grier of Toledo.

Dr. Tarbill and the former Marguerite Williams were married in Columbus, while he was a student at Ohio State University. Following graduation in 1926, he spent four years with the State Bureau of Animal Industry on 'Bovine Tuberculosis Eradication.' He came to New Holland in 1930, and was involved mainly in large animal work.

In 1954 he was joined by his son, and as changes occurred in veterinary service, they established the "Tarbill Small Animal Clinic," which they still own and operate.

NURSE GRADUATE — Mrs. Jean Paul Davis, R.N., wife of Major Darrell F. Davis, ret., 614 Broadway, graduated recently from nurse's training at Columbus Technical Institute in Columbus. She is the daughter of the late Mrs. Nell R. Paul, a teacher in the Washington City School system for several years, and the mother of two, Jim of Vancouver, Wash., and Mrs. Karen Curl of Sabina.

Miss Gordon speaks to Zeta CCL

The January meeting of Zeta Child Conservation League took place in the home of Mrs. Larry Bishop when Sheila Gordon, AFS student at Miami Trace High School, presented slides of her native South Africa. A discussion of morals in the United States and Africa took place.

Mrs. Clinton Gilmore conducted the meeting and presented devotions. Seventeen members were welcomed and Mrs. Bruce Ream was a guest. Mrs. Jim Tuvell made a report of the philanthropic committee project. Members voted to purchase a surgical pad and matress to be given to Fayette Memorial Hospital.

The constitution was read during the meeting by Mrs. Gary Thompson and Mrs. John Marcum.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Phil Grover, Mrs. Russell Klontz and Mrs. Larry Bishop.

MISS KATHLEEN J. BENNETT

May wedding is planned

Mrs. Marian Bennett of Cincinnati has announced the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter Kathleen Joy to John Alan Graham.

Miss Bennett, a 1969 graduate of Mount Healthy High School, will graduate from Cincinnati Bible Seminary with a bachelor of science degree in English and Bible in May.

Her fiance, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mr. and Mrs. William Graham, 736 E. Temple St., is a 1967 graduate of Washington High School and of Cincinnati Bible Seminary in 1971. He is presently news director of WHKK radio in Erlinger, Ky.

A May 25 wedding is being planned in the Northern Hills Church of Christ in Cincinnati.

DECORATING TIPS:

Fabric shades are a pretty answer to a window decorating problem. They are easy to install, easy to use, and control light, too. If your decorating budget is small, cover the shades yourself.

Purchase new shades or use old ones that are in good shape. Be sure the shade is properly installed and in good working order. One tip—when completely rolled up, the fabric covered shade will be about twice the size of a plain shade. You'll need to use adjustable brackets that can be extended to hold the large roll.

Firm, closely woven fabric are easiest to manage. Trim the selvages and press out any folds and wrinkles.

Do all your work on a firm surface such as a large table or a bare floor. Unroll the shade leaving 1½ to 2 full turns on the roller. Measure the width of the shade and the length plus two inches to turn under at the bottom. Using these measurements, cut and fit the fabric to each shade individually. Press the fabric again and roll the right side of the fabric to the inside of the roll.

Several kinds of adhesives are available. White liquid glue mixed with and aqual amount of water gives good results. Apply the glue with a small paint brush.

Starting at the bottom of the shade, spread the glue mixture evenly over the entire width and about 2 feet of the length of the shade. Allowing two inches to turn under at the bottom, fit the fabric to the shade. Unroll the shade a few inches at a time; with your hands, press the fabric upward and outward onto the glued shade. Continue to glue and press until the shade is completed.

With a small brush, touch up the edges of both sides with the glue mixture. This assures a good seal and prevents the fabric from reveling. Turn the shade over and glue the 2-inch allowance to the back of the shade.

Check the entire shade, smoothing the fabric firmly with your hands to get rid of any air bubbles or loose spots. Roll the shade up loosely and let dry thoroughly before hanging it in place.

WORKSHOP PLANNED

Fayette Cancer unit names new director

Mrs. Robert Barber, 732 Broadway, was named the new executive director of the Fayette County unit of the American Cancer Society Tuesday during a luncheon meeting at the Terrace Lounge. She replaces Mrs. William Heinz, 503 W. Circle Ave., whose resignation was accepted by the local chapter with regret. Mrs. Heinz had served since last May.

Mrs. Barber was chosen from a field of five applicants for the job. She served as adult activities director for the Wheeling, W. Va. Young Women's Christian Association and held an executive post in the employment field in Bellaire.

She also served on the Governor's Committee of Services to the Handicapped Worker. The mother of two children, she attended Ohio University.

MRS. CHARLENE BARBER

VOLUNTEERS FROM the Fayette County unit will attend a training session for the Cancer Society's 1974 crusade this weekend at the Neil House in Columbus.

Mrs. J. Talmadge Taylor, public imformation officer for the Fayette County unit, said the spirit of the meeting is expected to be one of "cautious optimism", due to the unknown factor introduced by the so-called fuel shortage.

"But if the response of the people of Ohio and Fayette County is as incouraging as the response to this training conference, the fuel shortage should have little effect on our reaching our goal of $4.4 million in Ohio."

During the conference, northeastern Ohio newscaster John Hambrick will be installed as chairman for the 1974 Ohio crusade. He replaces Cincinnati Bengals center Bob Johnson.

Attending the conference from Fayette County will be Mrs. Barber, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Charles L. Cunningham, Paul Johnson, Tom Mark, Elmer Reed and Mrs. Robert Antoine.

In attendance at Tuesday's luncheon meeting were Mrs. Barber, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Heinz, Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. Antoine, Mrs. William Fletcher, Mrs. Wayne Hidy, Mrs. Joe Henry, Jr., Dr. Joseph Herbert, Bart Mahoney, the Rev. Gerald Wheat and Reed.

Tax distribution plan to undergo changes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A new procedure for distributing tax money to counties will insure each county receiving at least $12,500 a month, the state auditor has announced.

State Auditor Joseph Ferguson said each county receives annually about $150,000, but the new procedure will space the payments more evenly.

Ferguson said $3.4 million has been distributed this month to Ohio's 88 counties and 335 cities and villages having local income taxes.

Testimony heard in mass murders

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Dean A. Corll, alleged mastermind in the slayings of 27 teenagers, shouted "kill me ... kill me" before he was shot to death last August, a witness has testified.

Timothy Kerley, 20, took the stand in a pretrial hearing on Tuesday and testified he was marked for death at a party in Corll's suburban Pasadena home last Aug. 8.

He said he was saved when Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, pulled a gun and shot the 33-year-old Corll five or six times.

Henley is to testify today at the pretrial hearing, being held in advance of Henley's murder trial in the death of Charles R. Cobble, 17.

Kerley, Henley and Rhonda Williams, 15, had passed out at the Corll home after sniffing paint and drinking beer and liquor. All three awoke to find themselves bound and gagged.

"I had enough sense to be aware that I was to be killed," Kerley testified.

Henley was released by Corll. Police have said Henley told them the other two were stripped nude and tied to a large plywood board in a bedroom.

Miss Williams also testified Tuesday. But she was allowed to give her account behind closed doors in the chambers of District Court Judge William Hatten because she is a juvenile.

"Wayne said, 'You've gone far enough, Dean.' Dean jumped up and ran at him with his hands raised and said, 'Kill me, Wayne, kill me.' And that's what he did," Kerley said.

Corll's death has been ruled self-defense.

"Wayne said maybe we should just leave. I said no, we should call the police, and he said okay," Kerley testified.

The three went out on the sidewalk after calling police. Henley then said "he had done that four or five times," Kerley testified.

Under questioning by defense lawyer Will Gray, Kerley said Henley had not said he had killed four or five persons, but that was what Kerley interpreted the statement to mean.

Henley is charged with six counts of murder in the slayings.

Richard Rouse named

Rouse has been vice president and general manager of the firm's Ohio Valley Division since March 1972. He is replaced by George G. Schneider.

Last chance to see Skylab

If you haven't seen Skylab yet, or if you want to see it again, this is your last chance. The Skylab III mission is scheduled to end on February 8, thus bringing an end to the Skylab program. Although the space station will remain in orbit, NASA will no longer be sending out predictions on when it will be visible, according to Rick Binzel, 542 Washington Ave.

To see Skylab for the final time, you will probably have to get up a little earlier in the morning than normal. The table gives the date, the approximate time that it will first become visible (all times are a.m.), and the direction which it will be traveling. Also given is the amount of time which it will be visible and its maximum elevation above the horizon. (90 degrees is directly overhead, 45 degrees would be halfway overhead etc.).

Driver escapes injury after truck accident

A Washington C.H. area veterinarian escaped injury after the truck he was driving was heavily damaged in an accident on U.S. 35 to 3:35 p.m. Tuesday.

Fayette County Sheriff's deputies said a truck driven by Dr. Dick R. Junk, 56, Rt. 5, Washington C.H., traveled off the roadway, 152 feet through a ditch, collided with a tree head-on and continued 27 more feet before striking a fence and gate owned by William B. Dunn, Rt. 6.

Deputies said the 1974 model truck, driven by Dr. Junk, was heavily damaged. Slight damage was reported to the fence.

Man fractures jaw in mishap

A young Washington C.H. man fractured his jaw in several places at 6 p.m., Tuesday, the result of an accident on a three-wheeled vehicle with balloon tires, according to city police.

John Penrod, 21, of 224 Draper St., hit an embankment behind the Washington Park swimming pool on Oakland Avenue. He was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital and later transferred to University Hospital in Columbus where he is listed in satisfactory condition.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported a driver who pulled into Garner's Union 76 service station at the intersection of U.S. 35 and I-71, pumped his own gas and drove away.

An attendant obtained the license number of the vehicle and contacted the owner. The owner stated he hadn't been the driver, but would pay for the gas.

Schools receive subsidy payments

Fayette County school districts received a net total of $114,132.74 in State School Foundation subsidy payments in January, the state Auditors' office reports.

Washington C.H. schools received a net allocation of $57,971.07 and Miami Trace schools received $56,161.67. The net figures are based on total basic and transportation allowances less deductions for retirement funds and allotments to the county board of education.

A net total of $46,189,993.80 was distributed to Ohio's 615 school districts for the month.

Two non-traffic cases are heard

Two persons were scheduled to appear before acting Judge John P. Case in Municipal Court Tuesday on non-traffic charges.

William W. Brunning, 66, Columbiana, pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication and was fined $10. He had been arrested by the police.

Peter L. Poling, 25, Greenfield, who was charged by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department with illegally dumping trash, failed to appear in court and forfeited $25 bond.

Ailing gyro brings more Skylab worry

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Frequent faltering of a control gyroscope has prompted the early dispatch of the Skylab 3's prime recovery ship.

But space officials say astronauts Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson can probably complete their 12-week mission even if the ailing stabilizer breaks down.

"I have a good feeling we're going to go the 84 days — if the gods smile on us," said Skylab Program Director William C. Schneider.

Schneider said backup systems probably could hold the station steady without the gyro for the remaining 16 days of the mission.

Many scientific experiments would have to be curtailed, however.

A photo survey of earth was canceled Tuesday after almost continuous fluctuations of the gyroscope.

"We should be prepared for it to go out at any time," Schneider said. "But hopefully it won't go out at all."

If it did fail, "we wouldn't come home in a rush" because control of the 85-ton station would shift automatically to computer-managed thruster systems, he said.

But, after the gyro acted up for more than 8 hours Tuesday, Schneider ordered the carrier USS New Orleans to leave for the splashdown zone off the California coast. It will sail on Saturday from San Diego, Calif., three days ahead of schedule.

"Don't construe this as meaning we're coming home early," Schneider told newsmen. "We just don't want to block the possibility of coming home early."

The ship will be in position to retrieve the astronauts anytime starting Sunday. They are in the 68th day of the mission today, with splashdown set for Feb. 8.

Jaycee annual banquet to be held tonight

A variety of awards will be presented to Washington C.H. Jaycees and other area citizens tonight at the annual Jaycees Bosses' Night banquet in the Terrace Lounge.

Highlighting the awards ceremonies will be the presentation of awards for honorary citizenship, distinguished service, the outstanding young farmer and educator of the year, and physical fitness.

Jaycee awards will include Jaycee of the year, outstanding first-year Jaycee and "Spoke" and "Spark Plug" awards.

F. Darrell Cook, programming vice president of the Ohio Jaycees, will deliver the evening's keynote address.

The social hour will begin at 6 p.m., with the dinner following at 7 p.m. Ron Pohlman is the chairman of this year's banquet.

Church conference is scheduled here

The Fayette Bible Church will host a conference of the Ohio Bible Fellowship, which is made up of Bible churches across the state. Each year the Fellowship has four conferences in various parts of the state.

Pastors, staff and members of some 15 churches in the state will be here for the two days meeting. The Conference will begin at 2:30 p.m. Friday with meetings throughout Friday and Saturday.

The featured speaker this time will be the Rev. Ken Hay, of Roszmann, N.C. The theme of the fellowship meeting this year is "Reaching People For Christ Through Camping Activities."

Pastor Denny Howard of the Fayette Bible Church has indicated that the sessions are open for anyone who wishes to attend.

Arrests

POLICE

TUESDAY — Jackie L. Junk, 29, of 1303 S. Fayette St., speeding; David J. Baker, 20, Enon, red light; Edith F. Simmermon, 54, S. Solon, speeding and driving while intoxicated; Jerry Lee Scott, 34, shelby, driving while intoxicated.

School principal quits

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Jack Maddox has announced he is resigning as principal of Taft High School effective Aug. 1 to become superintendent of Batavia schools.

Gregg Street Church sets youth service

The Gregg Street Church of Christ in Christian Union will hold Evangelical Christian youth service at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. The Shiloh Gospelaires, of Frankfort, will be the featured singers, and the Rev. Charles Ragland will be the guest speaker.

There is no admission charge.

County NAACP sets meeting

Harold C. Strickland, field director of the Ohio NAACP, will be attending a meeting of the Fayette County NAACP chapter at 5 p.m. Saturday.

Robert McClendon, president of the Fayette County chapter, said the meeting will be held at 815 Rawlings St.

Hold anti-abortion rallies in Ohio

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM
Associated Press Writer

The anti-abortion movement in Ohio showed it was still alive and well Tuesday, staging rallies, marches, speeches and church services to mark the first anniversary of the U.S. Supreme Court decision legalizing most abortions.

Special observances were held in Columbus, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Toledo and other cities to commemorate what was called "Black Tuesday."

In Cincinnati, students from Edgecliffe College and St. Ursula Academy picketed the Cincinnati Women's Services, Inc., a clinic which claims it has performed 1,100 abortions this year.

The Roman Catholic Diocese of Toledo scheduled special worship services and prayer Tuesday. Jim Richards, diocese communications director, said all but one of northwestern Ohio's Catholic churches tolled their bells at noon to mark the anniversary.

St. Teresa's Catholic Church in downtown Toledo was unable to follow the request because the church has no bell. Instead, the 260 pupils and faculty at St. Teresa School formed a huge circle on the playground at noon Tuesday and prayed silently.

"Our children are concerned about the value of life and when they realized that for lack of a bell our church could not take part, they asked to do something special," said the Rev. Bernard Boff, St. Teresa pastor.

About 2,000 people attended a rally Tuesday night sponsored by the Toledo Foundation for Life organization. Those attending were told abortion is not a moral issue, but a matter of justice involving the rights of others, namely the unborn children.

The Rev. Michael Donovan, vice chancellor of the Columbus Roman Catholic Diocese, said the Tuesday observances were "an organized effort to rectify the court's decision and support a constitutional amendment for the sanctity of life.

"The right to give and take away life is God's," Father Donovan. "The Supreme Court is not the supreme being. It has usurped a right that belongs only to God."

"We believe many people do not understand what is at stake—the question of human life, itself."

No incidents in trucking shutdown

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP)—The State Highway Patrol said no new incidents of violence were reported Tuesday night in connection with trucker protests.

A patrol spokesman said traffic was flowing smoothly. He said patrolmen were following truckers in the area "with our cars, keeping the trucks moving."

Meanwhile, George Rynn of Akron, president of the Council of Independent Truckers, was reported in Washington for talks with U.S. Sen. Henry Jackson, chairman of the Senate Interior Committee.

Also reported at the Washington meeting was the editor of Overdrive Magazine, Mike Parkhurst, spokesman for a group of independent truckers who have scheduled another protest Jan. 31 over high fuel costs and speed limits.

Two East Liverpool men face vandalism charges for allegedly smashing the rear view mirror of a tractor-trailer rig on Ohio 11 Tuesday morning.

Sheriff's deputies said 45-year-old Thomas Hebron and 36-year-old George Cekovich were being held in Summit County jail in lieu of $1,000 bond. Deputies said a hearing was set for Thursday morning.

Fire authorities said the state fire marshal was being asked to investigate a fire which destroyed an Ashland Oil Co. truck near where protesting truckers were gathered.

Damage was estimated at $25,000.

Township trustee convention opens

About 30 officials from Fayette County are expected to be among the more than 2,500 attending the 46th convention of the Ohio State Association of Township Trustees and Clerks starting today in Columbus.

Headquartered at the Sheraton-Columbus Motor Hotel, the convention will last through Saturday. Highlighting the convention will be the election of officers for two-year terms. Among the candidates for offices is Robert Hines, Mt. Sterling, who is running for first vice president.

Some of the convention sessions will deal with revenue sharing, the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency and a "school for new trustees."

Fayette County's delegation will represent about 75 per cent of the 40 township officials in the county. The 1974 convention is expected to be the best-attended one in the organization's history.

Steel company death probed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Joe Shump, director of the Ohio Department of Industrial Relations, said Tuesday that statements by Jones and Laughlin Steel Co. following the death of a welder "do not jibe with the reports from our inspectors."

Shump said the victim, David Tokar of Cleveland, was one of 52 welders at the Cleveland plant who did not have state certification to work on pressure piping systems.

Tokar died in an explosion Jan. 5 while working such a system.

Hospital may lose license

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Renewal of the maternity license for Cincinnati's Good Samaritan Hospital may be withheld by the Ohio Health Department for failure to comply with state standards.

The action was supported Tuesday night by the Cincinnati Board of Health which conducted its own inspection and agreed with the state.

The same action threatens General Hospital, but can be remedied by moving some offices and storage, according to Dr. Arnold Leff, assistant city health commissioner.

The hospital will be in compliance by 1976, following a planned remodeling program. The state seeks compliance with state regulations requiring a specified amount of space for each bed.

Ohio does not license hospitals, but it does license maternity units.

Rotary Club members hear various reports

Members of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club heard various committee reports at the club's mid-year assembly held following the weekly luncheon in the Country Club.

Phil Grover, club president, said that perhaps members could enjoy Rotary Club more if they were more knowledgeable of the club functions. Some of the committee reports led to interesting general discussions.

Milbourne (Pete) Flee, who serves as chairman of the scholarship award committee and the Washington Park Association, spoke on the Rotary Club's program held in May in which outstanding students and athletes are honored. Flee said a new addition to this year's program will include sending invitations to the honored students' parents.

He talked at length on the Washington Park Association, which operates the community swimming pool. Flee said the Washington Park Association is comprised of Rotarians and that the swimming pool has been a Rotary Club project since 1946. There are 775 master memberships sold each year and that there is a long waiting list. The swimming pool employes 31 persons each summer. The discussion of the swimming pool generated conversation on the possibility of establishing another pool here, perhaps an indoor facility.

JIM WARD, chairman of the club's youth committee, explained the World Affairs Institute which is held each year in Cincinnati. Ward said top students from four adjoining states attend the conference and Russia will be the conference topic this year. Ward also mentioned the possibility of establishing a program in which students involved in work-study programs can be singled out with their employers at a Rotary Club meeting.

The Little League baseball fish fry, which is scheduled to be held May 10, was discussed with Rotarians by Lee Lynch, president of the Washington C.H. Little League.

Sheriff Don Thompson, who serves as chairman of the club's safety committee, discussed the possibility of the Rotary Club sponsoring safety films to be shown in the county schools.

The Student Conference on Private Enterprise (SCOPE) was discussed by chairman Bruce Galloway. The SCOPE program is sponsored by the Middletown Rotary Club and is held in March.

Brief discussions were heard from Jack Brennan on the trade and employe relations committee, from Ray Downing on the Four-Way Test committee, from Dr. John Jordan on the World Community Service committee, and from Rollo Marchant on the Rotary Club's foreign exchange program.

Student guests were Steve Deere, of MTHS, and Chuck Oesterle, of WSHS. Visiting Rotarians were Wade Pierce, of Cincinnati, Darrell French, of Wilmington, Dr. Walter Felson, of Greenfield, Fred Trimble and Ed Pennington, both of Mount Sterling, and Milt White, of Columbus.

Lions capture Indians 73-63

Phillips spearheads attack with 30

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Writer

The Washington C.H. Blue Lions, sparked by third and fourth quarter scorings sprees and a 30-point performance from sophomore phenomenon Doug Phillips, rolled to their sixth South Central Ohio League win and back into a tie for top spot with county rival Miami Trace. The victims this time were the cold shooting Hillsboro Indians. Phillips scored eight tallies in each of the first two periods and then cooled off somewhat in the third quarter when he collected only four counters. The 6-3 forward then finished in a flurry, scoring ten points in the final period for his 30 points.

The Blue Lions outscored the Indians from the floor but Hillsboro held a big advantage at the foul line. The Lions hit 33 of 73 floor shots for a good 45 per cent but the Indians connected on just 23 of their 74 field goal attempts for a poor 31 per cent. The charity stripe was dominated by Hillsboro who converted on 17 of 24 free throws while Washington C.H. stepped to the line ten fewer times (14), and consequently made 10 fewer shots (7). Washington C.H. won both the turnover and rebounding crowns when they gave the ball away 15 times to Hillsboro's 11, and picked off a total of 51 rebounds while the Indians crashed the boards 44.

THE FIRST quarter started slow but ended with a flash of point scoring. The Indians drew first blood as they jumped on top 4-0. Then Washington C.H. got the ball rolling and finally went ahead 6-5 on a Phillips 20-footer, a Jeff Wallace turnaround jumper, and a Craig Shaffer outside jumper. The lead changed back to Hillsboro but with the score 10-8 in the Indians favor, Phillips hit three buckets in the space of two minutes to bring back the lead to the Washington C.H. side at 14-10. The lead was short lived, however, as Hillsboro came back and achieved a 19-18 first quarter lead.

In the second quarter, the score was tied five times and the two teams scored an identical 16 points. The largest lead in the second period belonged to the Lions at 24-20 after Phillips had connected on three more quick baskets. From 5:17 in the quarter the lead seesawed back and forth until it changed for the final time with Hillsboro, again leading, this time by a score of 35-34.

The beginning of the third quarter was marred by the cold shooting by both teams. The Indians were the "warmer" of the two, scoring three baskets in the first four minutes of action. Suddenly, however, Washington C.H. regained their shooting ability and proceeded to reel off ten unanswered points on the basis of two Doug Boswell inside jump shots, two Chuck Byrd steals which resulted in two Byrd fast break layups, and a Kenny Knisley corner jumper. The Lions led 50-43 heading into the final period.

THE FINAL period served as the icing on the cake as the Lions churned out 23 points, their highest one quarter output of the year. At the start of the period, the Lions upped their lead to een points. Then after Hillsboro pulled to within eight, Washington C.H. put the game away on another Boswell inside shot and two more Phillips' jumpers. The Lions led by as much as 14 in the final period and then coasted the rest of the way behind a 73-63 cushion.

In addition to Phillips' 30 points, Boswell added 12 tallies, Knisley chipped in with nine counters, and Jeff Wallace and Byrd each contributed six points. The Indians were paced by SCOL leading scorer Kevin Bailey with 22 points, Roger Jewett collected 10 counters, and Dave Larimer who added 9 cantos.

The rebounding crew consisted of Phillips, Knisley, Wallace, and Boswell who pulled down 15,14, 7, and 6 missed shots, respectively. The Indians rebounding was paced by Jewett, Larimer, and Mike Sharkey.

Box score

Score by quarters:

Hil.	19	16	8	20—63
WCH	18	16	16	23—73

HILLSBORO—Jewett (2-6-10); Bailey (8-6-22); Sharkey (3-2-8); Vance (2-2-6); Larimer (4-1-9); Turner (3-0-6); Wharton (1-0-2); Totals (23-17-63).

WASHINGTON C.H. — Phillips (14-2-30); Wallace (3-0-6); Shaffer (2-0-4); Knisley (4-1-9); Boswell (5-2-12); Vess (1-2-4); Byrd (3-0-6); Essman (1-0-2); Totals (33-7-73).

Lion jayvees lose 56-49

The Washington C.H. Blue Lion reserves sank even lower into the depths of the South Central Ohio League as they bowed for the fifth time in league action and the tenth time in all games. This time the villans were the Hillsboro Indian jayvees and the score was a lackluster 56-49.

The game was nothing but an exhibition of each teams' free throw shooting ability. During the game, there was an astronomic total of 49 personal fouls called on both teams. The Indians made 20 of their free shots while Washington C.H. converted on just 13 of theirs.

The Blue Lion scoring was paced by Cliff Dixon and Randy Gardner who scored 13 and 10 points respectively. Eddie DeWees also contributed seven to the Lions score and Randy Sparkman added another five. The Indian attack was spearheaded by Barry Zink who ended the game as the scoring leader with 17 points. Complimenting Zink were Darrell Wilson and Don Marsh who added scores of 15 and 8 respectively. Everyone who played chipped in with at least one rebound for the Blue Lions with DeWees and Gardner collecting the most. The Hillsboro rebounding was done by Marsh, Wilson, and Alan McKenzie.

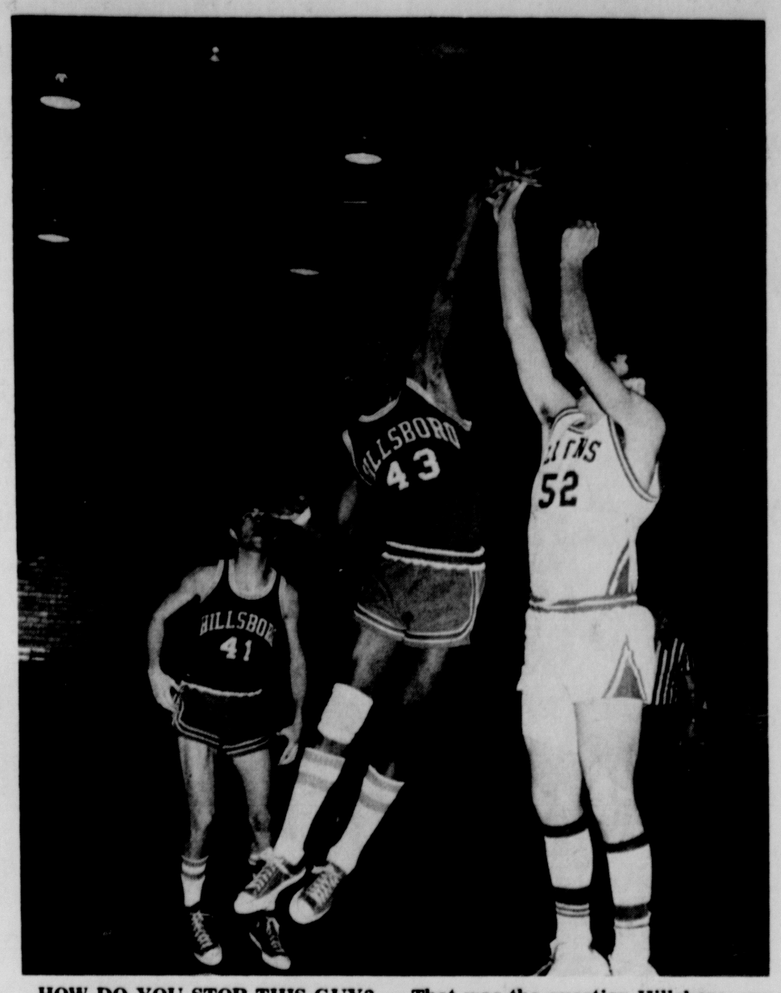

The Lions meet the Madison Plains Golden Eagles at the WSHS gym on Friday night and travel to the MTHS gym to take on Greenfield on Friday, Feb. 1. Game time each night will be 6:30 p.m.

Score by quarters:

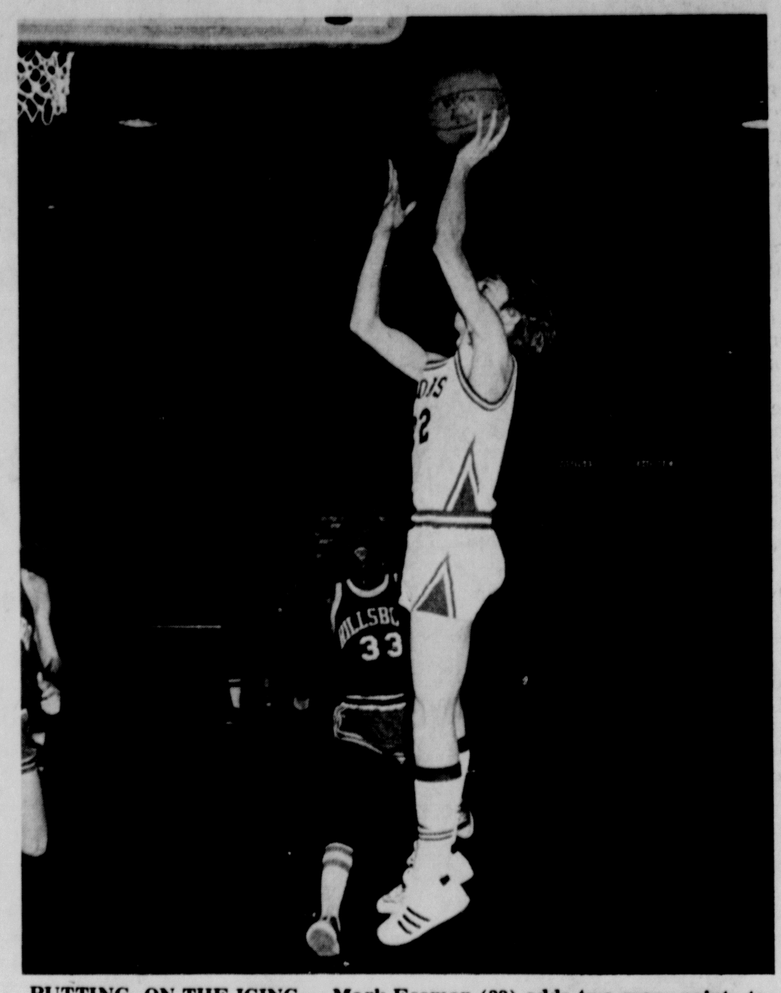

Hil.	15	12	11	18—56
WCH	9	13	12	15—49

HILLSBORO — McKenzie (2-2-6); Marsh (2-4-8); Conley (1-1-3); Gibbs (2-1-5); Fauber (1-0-2); Zink (4-9-17); Wilson (6-3-15); Totals (18-20-56).

WASHINGTON C.H. — DeWees (3-1-7); Dixon (4-5-13); Foster (1-1-3); Gardner (5-0-10); Jamison (0-0-0); Lamberson (1-0-2); Sefton (1-1-3); G. Sparkman (0-2-2); R. Sparkman (1-3-5); Shaw (2-0-4); Totals (18-13-49).

HOW DO YOU STOP THIS GUY? — That was the question Hillsboro was asking Tuesday night as Doug Phillips (52) connected on many shots like this for a game high 30 points. The sophomore sensation led the Lions to their sixth SCOL win 73-63 over the Indians. Attempting to block the shot are Hillsboro's Lawrence Turner (43) and Mike Sharkey (41).

'New' Johnny Bench signs pact

CINCINNATI (AP) — The "new" Johnny Bench, hinting of added maturity and even marriage, willingly scribbled his signature to a contract agreement Tuesday described by his boss as "a first in sports."

Believed to be his second straight $100,000-plus-a-year pact, Bench did not dicker or stage any preliminary negotiations with Cincinnati Reds' President Bob Howsam.

"I told him to fill it in for what he thought was fair and I'd sign it," said the handsome 26-year-old superstar as he approached the start of his seventh season with the Reds.

Howsam, whose shrewd baseball dealings have assembled what some consider a dynasty in the making, said it was an unselfish and unheard of move in this day of high-priced holdouts.

"But that's the way John is," said Howsam. "He's always been first-class. He has faith in the people he deals with and I have faith in him."

"I'm satisfied," said Bench, "and he's satisfied." Bench said he didn't take a pay cut.

Bench signed for a reported $105,000 last year, shortly after lung surgery to explore what was feared to be cancer. A benign tumor was removed.

His performance afield reflected in his statistics. Some said the operation and ensuing grueling schedule sapped him of his power.

In 1972 he was named Most Valuable Player of the National League for leading both leagues in home runs with 40 and runs batted in with 125.

Given rest more frequently, but still appearing in a workhorse 153 games, Bench's mark dropped. His .270 average in 1972 fell to .253, the home runs dwindled to 25. But he cracked the 100-RBI plateau for the third time with 104.

"I wasn't completely satisfied with 1973, but realistically speaking I have to be pleased. A lot of players would like to have that kind of year," said Bench from his plush $50,000-a-year apartment which overlooks the Ohio River.

But there were positive effects from his brush with disaster.

"I think I've slowed down since the operation. It made me aware you can't go hell-bent-for-leather all your life. I was always in a big rush before.

"I'm not trying to catch the wind anymore," laughed the biggest votegetter in All-Star Game history, a No. 2 draft choice in 1965.

And the talk of marriage?

"I think it's probably time I settled down. I said at a banquet the other day that I might get married if we win the World Series this year.

"I mean it. There's no one special right now. I think I've realized you can't play baseball all your life. There are other things that are going to mean much more later on," said the stocky Oklahoman who sprouted a mustache in the off-season and sported a number of foxy flamur gals during his coast-to-coast appearances.

But marriage will have to wait for now.

"We've got to get that elusive World Series title and I feel this is the year. We're a better ball club than before and we've had some great clubs in the past.

"We haven't finished our goal," said Bench.

Moccasins lead small college

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coach Ron Shumate promised last year to bring championship basketball to the University of Tennessee-Chattanooga, and with three victorious outings last week, the Moccasins have taken over first place in the Associated Press college division poll.

Shumate led the Moccasins to a 21-8 season last year, and so far this year, they're 13-1, with their only loss at the hands of Middle Tennessee State University.

UT-Chattanooga — which defeated West Florida, Georgia State and Mercer last week — received 15 first place votes cast by the nation's sports writers and sportscasters, for a total of 590 points. UT-Chattanooga had been fourth in the poll.

A key to the Moccasins' success this year has been Walter "Moose" McGary, a third string AP Little All-American last year at center who has moved to forward this year. They also are led by Wayne Golden, who averages 18 points a game and is the nation's leading free throw shooter, averaging 87.5 per cent from the line.

Kentucky Wesleyan, which was beaten 90-89 by Drury, dropped to fifth with a 9-3 record. The Kentucky team got three first-place votes and 380 total points.

Alcorn A&M, 14-2 — with victories last week over Southern University, Mississippi Valley State and Grambling — retained second place with nine first-place votes and 498 total points.

Old Dominion moved up from seventh to third, and Fairmont State jumped from eighth to fourth in the poll. Old Dominion, 9-3, had one first-place vote and 421 points, while Fairmont State, 13-0 and the only unbeaten team in the top 15, got three first-place votes and 412 total points.

Jackson State is the only new team joining the top 15. Jackson, which is 15-1 and sustained its only loss to Alcorn A&M, leads the Southwestern Athletic Conference with a 5-0 mark.

Tennessee State, 9-3, dropped from fifth to sixth in the poll with 375 points, and Evansville, 9-4, received two first-place votes but dropped from third to seven with a loss to Old Dominion. Sam Houston State, 13-1, moved from ninth to eighth in the poll, and Augustana, 12-2, plummeted from sixth to ninth. Wittenberg, 11-1, maintained its hold on 10th.

Rounding out the top 15 were Morgan State, which moved from 12th to 11th; Armstrong St., which jumped from 14th to 12th; Jackson State; Midwestern, which fell from 11th to 14th, and Southeast Louisiana.

The Top 15, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records through games of Saturday, Jan. 19, and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

1. UT-Chatt. 15	13-2	590
2. Alcorn A&M(9)	14-2	498

Dick Crum announces trio of assistants

OXFORD, Ohio (AP)—Miami of Ohio's new head football coach, Dick Crum, Tuesday announced the signing of three assistant coaches, including two highly-successful Ohio high school grid bosses.

Crum was named Sunday to succeed Bill Mallory who took over at Colorado. Crum said his three new assistants are Denny Marcin, Joe Novak and Tom Stillwagon.

Big Dealer winner

Larry Bullington top MAC player of week

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Larry Bullington, a Ball State guard who surpassed the high school scoring records of Oscar Robertson and George McGinnis, is the Mid-American Conference Basketball Player of the Week.

The 6-foot-2 senior guard led the Cardinals to a 99-82 upset over Cincinnati with 22 points and five assist and fired in 47 points in a 93-87 rout of Cleveland State last week.

Dan Driessen named top 'Reds newcomer'

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Dan Driessen, a rookie whose blazing bat helped key a torrid Cincinnati Reds comeback, was named as the club's Newcomer of the Year by the Cincinnati Chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Thrust into a new position at third base, he responded by hitting .301 while playing in 87 games. He was called up from the Reds farm team in Indianapolis where he was hitting .406.

MT has seven games to go

By DENNIS STAPLETON
Record-Herald Sports Editor

There is an old saying that goes something like this. "It's a lot harder going up a mountain than coming down." That may be true when talking about climbing, but in the case of Miami Trace, the latter part of the season might be a lot harder to finish then the first segment.

In the first nine week's of the grueling basketball schedule, the fiery Panthers have played 11 games - won eight lost three - and lead the South Central Ohio League with a 6-win 1-loss record. The last four weeks of cage action have Miami Trace swallowed-up in seven games - five being league contests.

Starting this Saturday when the Panthers host visiting Franklin Heights from the Metropolitan League, Miami Trace plays four weekend games and three Tuesday night clashes. Following Franklin Heights will be another non-loop tussle. The Bishop Hartley game regularly scheduled for Feb. 2 has been moved up to Tuesday Jan. 29. February 1 marks the second Hillsboro game of the season, Feb. 5 is the date of the rescheduled Greenfield match, Circleville is the opponent on Feb. 8, Washington C.H. hosts the second Fayette County feud Feb. 12, and the season ends Feb. 15 against Madison Plains.

SINCE Franklin Heights is the next Panther victim - to be, Miami Trace can't afford to look ahead and neither can we.

The Golden Falcons are currently holding a 5-8 record overall and a 4-6 chart in the Metropolitan League. Leading the Metra League is Teays Valley - rated no. 5 in the Class AA Ohio high school AP poll. Franklin Heights hasn't been having a real good season but neither has it been having a bad season. "We just can't seem to play as a five man team," remarked Falcon head coach Bruce Brown. The 1968 graduate of Pleasant View high school went on to say, "we are in a tough primarily double-A league and our non-loop schedule is also tough. If we could work together as a team, the boys could win some games. Standing around seems to be our biggest problem but that is starting to change as the season has progressed."

Leading the Falcon attack is 6-foot-1 junior forward-guard Larry Ferst. The multi-talented roundballer averages 22 points per game plus grabs 11 rebounds per game. Coach Brown feels that Ferst is undoubtedly a condidate for All-District as a junior and should be an All-State selection next year. All ready this year Ferst has broken the all time three year scoring record at Franklin Heights. According to Brown, the ball wizardry that Ferst displays during a game sometimes attracts the attention of his fellow players and causes them to lose concentration in the game.

FERST'S sidekick in the scoring duties is pivotman Ron Lathem. The 6-foot-3 Lathem averages 12 points per outing and spears 10 rebounds per game. Rounding out the players that usually see action are Cameron Harmon and Mike Blount at guard, Jack Sims at one forward spot and Gary Jordan fills in from the bench at a forward position.

Falcon's operate a run and shoot type game when possible. They utilize the full-court press using their speed and usually play a tight man to man defense. Once the ball is down the court though, a patterned offense is set up rotating around Ferst.

Miami Trace will probably go with the same six players that have been seeing most of the action. Dave Persinger in the middle, Randy Reiber and Jeff King on the sides and Steve Mowery, Dave Steinhauser and Phil Skinner at the guard posts.

MT matmen place second

The Miami Trace wrestlers took second place in a triangular meet Tuesday evening at MTHS against first place finisher Wilmington and third place Hillsboro.

Wilmington outpointed the Panthers 77-63 with Hillsboro finishing third with 53 total points. Panther matman Don Dunton set a new school record for the fastest pin by dropping his man in 15 seconds. The old record was 18 seconds held by Gardner Cobb.

The winners for Miami Trace:

Gary Cobb — 132 pound — two wins.

Jim Reno — 155 pound — one win and a draw.

Don Dunton — 175 pound — two wins, both by pins.

Greg Detty — 185 pound — one win.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When General Manager Eddie Donovan and Coach Jack Ramsay revamped the Buffalo Braves during the off-season, they didn't expect instant success — but that's just about what has happened.

The Braves, who won 22, 22 and 21 games in their first three years in the National Basketball Association, won their 25th game of the 1973-74 season Tuesday night, beating the Philadelphia 76ers 119-109.

That boosted Buffalo's record to 25-24 and made this the latest point in any season that the expansion club has been above the .500 mark.

Jim McMillian hit 10 consecutive shots and scored 32 points for the Braves against Philadelphia. Bob McAdoo added 21 points and 14 rebounds and Gar Heard had 20 points and 15 rebounds.

In other NBA games, the Houston Rockets beat the New York Knicks 108-93, the Chicago Bulls topped the Atlanta Hawks 102-89, the Kansas City-Omaha Kings defeated the Portland Trail Blazers 103-96, the Golden State Warriors edged the Capital Bullets 99-97 and the Cleveland Cavaliers nipped the Los Angeles Lakers 111-110 in overtime.

John Ralston honored

NEW YORK (AP) — John Ralston, who gave the Denver Broncos their first winning season, was named today the American Football Conference's Coach of the Year by the Pro Football Writers of America.

Overweight Austrians get warning

VIENNA (AP) — Some 70 per cent of Austrian women and 40 per cent of Austrian men are overweight.

The Austrian minister of health, Dr. Ingrid Leodolter, who revealed this, said something that most Austrians knew anyway by just watching their waistlines.

But the minister, a medical doctor, told a recent news conference that being overweight was not only a problem of appearances but a medical problem as well.

She said overweight leads to diabetes, circulatory ailments and eventually to heart attacks.

The number of heart attacks has increased as waistlines have expanded.

She said that in 1960 about 8,000 Austrians — of a population of over seven million — suffered heart attacks. The figure had increased to 17,000 by 1971. Diabetes cases increased from 7,500 in 1955 to 16,000 in 1971.

The health minister disclosed these figures while presenting a booklet which gives advice on healthy, nonfattening foods. The booklet, published by her ministry, will be available free of charge to every Austrian.

The health minister said she hoped it would help cut down Austrians' weight.

Subway station may display art

TORONTO (AP) — Metro's subway station at Avenue Road and Bloor Street may soon serve as an extension of the nearby Royal Ontario Museum.

Officials at the museum have been conferring with subway commissioners about the possibilities of displaying museum articles in the subway. It is hoped the station can be transformed into something similar to the Souvre station on the Paris subway where statues, paintings and other art works are displayed.

Opening lead - king of spades.

This deal comes from the 1966 Tournament of Champions played annually in Deauville, France. With Avarelli and D'Alelio of Italy North-South, and Konstam and Harrison-Gray of England East-West, the bidding went as shown.

Gray led the king of spades, on which Konstam played the nine. Ordinarily, the play of the nine—obviously a high-card signal—would constitute a request for West to continue the suit. That is the way almost everyone plays, and that is the way Gray interpreted the nine.

But when Gray led another spade, D'Alelio ruffed and easily made the contract. Had Gray shifted to a diamond, the defense would have won the first three tricks to put declarer down one.

Obviously, Gray and Konstam were working on different wave lengths. Konstam intended the spade nine as a signal for Gray to shift to a diamond—the higher-ranking of the two side suits (clubs and diamonds). This was in accord with the suit-preference convention played by Konstam in such situations.

It can be argued that Gray should have switched to a diamond despite what he thought was a come-on signal in spades, because he could infer from the bidding that South had no more spades.

The answer to this, if we accept Gray's thesis that there can be no suit-direction signal at trick one, is that Konstam was commanding another spade lead because he did not want any other suit played.

But the practical answer is that any pair who agree to play in a major championship should settle in advance the methods of defense they plan to use. It is unreasonable to expect harmonious results when the trombone is playing Sousa and the cello is playing Beethoven.

Skiers! Watch Those Muscles!

Already thousands of people are enthusiastically rushing to the ski slopes, many overextending their bodies after a year of rest from skiing.

Most will return home happy and exuberant, while more than a few will be delayed for weeks, depending on the seriousness of their accidents.

Skiing is an exhilarating sport, but it can be a hazardous one for novices and experts alike who fail to take heed of the basic precautions that make accidents avoidable.

It is imperative that skiers begin the season with progressive exercises at home in order to condition the muscles that have not been used for a year.

As with all other sports there must be no compromise with good, reliable, safe equipment. The investment in good skis, well-fitting boots, and safety bindings pays off dividends at the end of the ski holiday.

It is most important that every skier know his own limitations and take on the more difficult trails very gradually. Horseplay in this sport is a dangerous substitute for courtesy on the slopes. Rules of safety posted by the ski experts must be clearly adhered to.

Every injury to the shoulder, the wrist, the ankle or the knee should be inspected to be sure that no fracture is overlooked. The heroic pretense to deny pain or disability may convert a simple problem into a difficult one.

The joy of skiing is great. It can continue to be a happy experience if its potential dangers are respected.

An interesting psychological observation was brought to light when a group of 30 children was examined because of extreme and unusual fatigue.

Overexposure to long hours of continuous television viewing seemed to be responsible for restlessness, intense anxiety and poor sleeping habits, in addition to exhaustion.

Children easily become addicted to television unless reasonable limits are enforced by parents.

Scholastic achievements and good health both benefit markedly when outdoor play and physical exercise are substituted for uninterrupted hours of staring at a television screen.

Ziegler becomes operative again

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, a survivor of highlevel recommendations that he be replaced because he lacked credibility, is back confronting the media again.

"I intend to give more briefings," Ziegler announced Tuesday. He had just surprised the White House press corps by returning to the press room podium after a lengthy absence from regular briefings.

Ziegler's credibility was shaken last year when he declared "inoperative" Watergate-related statements he had made over a period of months.

"Six months is too long to be away from my friends in the press," he told White House reporters with whom he often has been at odds.

Ziegler has not appeared regularly to brief reporters at the White House since last June. As questions about his credibility were raised by the press corps, key Nixon advisers Melvin R. Laird and former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally suggested that he be replaced.

But Ziegler, a former advertising executive with the J. Walter Thompson agency, has survived and been given added stature as a presidential assistant.

While abdicating the briefing podium to his stand-in, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren, Ziegler has surfaced periodically to handle major announcements. He last appeared Nov. 29 when Warren was ill.

Some veteran White House reporters suspect Ziegler is returning because Nixon wants his most trusted press man out front now that the serious issues of impeachment and the possibility of more Watergate indictments are coming to the fore.

Asked why Ziegler was returning, Warren said, "The President thought it was a good idea and Ron wanted to do it."

At a 50-minute Tuesday morning briefing, Ziegler faced a barrage of Watergate-related questions.

One reporter asked: "Do you think your credibility has been restored?"

"I think credibility is always a question that has to be determined by the listener," Ziegler said. He said that in speaking for the White House he has stated the facts as he knew them to be and could speak "in very good conscience."

Asked about a new White House directive that all White House aides report to him on their contacts to the press, Ziegler said the procedure was launched because many news stories have been quoting anonymous White House sources. He said Nixon aides now would "go on the record as much as possible except when it is beneficial to us or to you."

When the briefing was over, the press secretary was asked how he liked getting back into the fray.

"Well, it hasn't changed much," Ziegler replied.

Ohio corn planting to increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Crop Reporting Service had good news for consumers Tuesday when it reported a survey indicated the state's farmers plan to boost 1974 corn plantings by 15 per cent.

Corn is the most important livestock feed grain for producing meat, milk and poultry. This year's crop, to be harvested in the fall, will be a key to those supplies through 1975.

The reporting service's survey showed an intended corn planting of 3.8 million acres in 1974, compared to the 3.3 million last year, while soybean acreage will drop 8 per cent from 3.6 million to 3.3 million acres.

But officials cautioned that actual plantings could be changed by the shortage of nitrogen fertilizer. If the shortage is acute, corn acreage could go down and soybean acreage could go up.

The predicted corn-soybean total was 7.1 million acres, compared to 6.9 million acres in 1973. The net increase of 200,000 acres was only a small part of the 2.5 million additional acres released in Ohio for planting by the federal government.

Officials said part of that additional acreage went to winter wheat. Ohio farmers are expected to increase that planting from 755,000 acres to 1.5 million acres.

The remaining 1.5 million acres of cropland remained undedicated to 1974 crops at the time of the survey, officials said.

Ashland County prosecutor quits

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—Ashland County Republican leaders are to meet next week to pick a replacement for John W. Johnson, who resigned Tuesday as Ashland County prosecutor.

Puglisi cited Johnson for contempt last week for failing to notify the court that he would not appear for trial in a narcotics case. The judge dismissed the charges in that case for lack of prosecution.

Man arrested in dual murder

NEW LONDON, Ohio (AP) — One man has been charged and another is being sought in the shooting deaths of two recluse Ashland County brothers.

Charged with aggravated murder was Thomas Hedges, 23, formerly of New London, police said.

Ashland County Prosecutor John Johnson said Hedges' roommate is being sought for questioning.

The bodies of Edward Hooker, 58, and Joseph Hooker, 61, were found Saturday by a neighbor. They had been shot to death and their home ransacked, but officials have not disclosed if any money was taken.

Rain covers wide area

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers and thunderstorms spilled over a broad stretch of the nation's midlands from Texas to Michigan today, turning to heavy snow in the upper reaches.

Up to four inches of snow fell in northeastern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

Flood conditions in the Missouri, Mississippi and Ohio valleys were aggravated by the snow melt, rain and ice jams.

Near blizzard conditions struck the upper Plains, North Dakota and the northern Rockies. Snow with winds up to 40 miles an hour was expected in North Dakota.

Fair skies prevailed over most of the Atlantic coastal region and from California east through the central and southern Plains.

No perjury plans, prosecutors say

Dean's testimony withstanding test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III's testimony before the Senate Watergate committee and federal grand juries apparently is withstanding the test of the White House tapes.

It was learned Tuesday night that the prosecutors have no plans to charge Dean with lying when he testified about White House discussions of the Watergate break-in.

It also is known that Dean is continuing to cooperate closely with the prosecutors. He was seen entering their offices within the last couple of days.

A source, who said he believed he was familiar with the material Republican Senate leader Hugh Scott said contradicted Dean, suggested that Scott may have been mistaken.

Scott said Sunday the White House had information that could prove Dean was wrong when he said the President knew of the Watergate cover-up before March 21, 1973, the date the President has said he first learned of it.

The prosecutor's office declined comment on the reports. Scott could not be reached for comment.

Dean pleaded guilty in October to a charge of conspiracy to obstruct justice. The prosecutors agreed not to seek further charges against Dean in exchange for his cooperation.

Last July, the prosecutor's office subpoenaed the tapes of nine presidential conversations. The demand was based largely on Dean's testimony before the Watergate committee.

On Oct. 23, the White House agreed to give the tapes voluntarily to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, who subsequently turned over the Watergate portions to the prosecutors.

The White House had notified Sirica that two of the conversations sought never were recorded and that a third contained an 18½-minute gap that had obliterated all references to the Watergate break-in.

Last week, Sirica referred those three cases to special prosecutor Leon Jaworski with a recommendation he present evidence to a grand jury. Jaworski's staff began presenting the case to a grand jury on Monday.

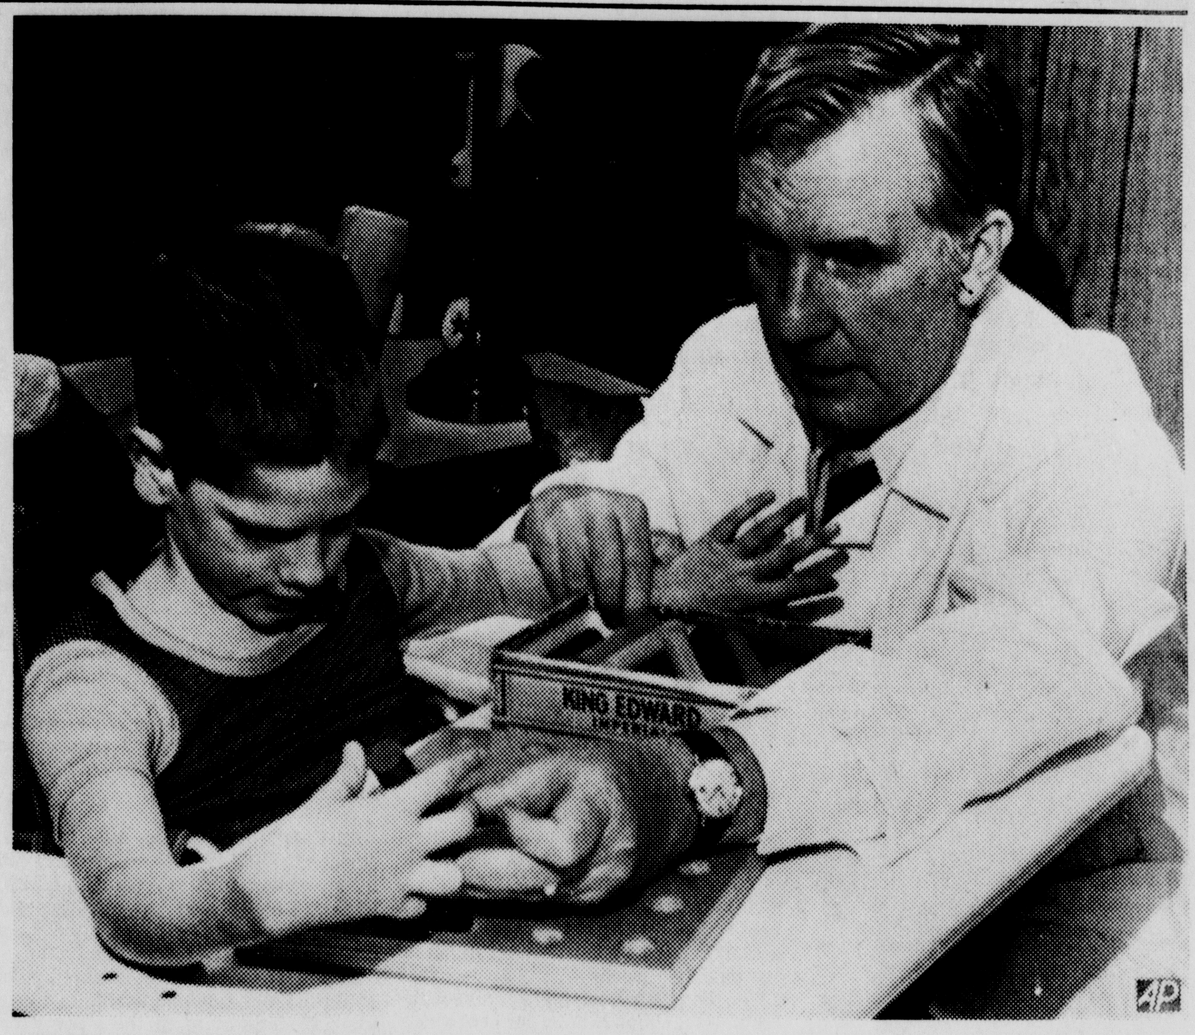

According to a memorandum filed in court last August in support of the subpoena issued by the prosecutors, the crucial meetings involving Dean occurred on Sept. 15, 1972, and March 13 and 21, 1973.

Dean said that at the Sept. 15, meeting the President congratulated him on the "good job" he had done and said he was pleased the case had "stopped with Liddy."

Dean testified that on March 13, the President told him he had approved executive clemency for Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt and that there would be no problem about raising $1 million to buy the silence of all seven defendants.

There were two meetings on March 21. All accounts agree that during the first, Dean gave the President his theory of the cover-up involving White House and presidential campaign committee officials.

At the afternoon meeting, Dean said the possibility of White House and campaign officials testifying before the grand jury was discussed and that after the session it was clear to him the cover-up would continue.

GOVERNOR AS TRAINEE — Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan helps Jimmy Long, 11, do an exercise in the Orient State Institute in Columbus, Ohio. Gov. Gilligan worked as a psychiatric aide trainee to observe the second anniversary of a program to humanize life for Ohio's 23,000 mental patients.

Nixon musters GOP supporters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House and Vice President Gerald R. Ford are sounding a positive note on President Nixon's ability to overcome Watergate despite a lack of public support from congressional Republicans.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler portrayed Nixon Tuesday as determined to serve out his term and ready to tackle national problems rather than be "consumed by Watergate."

Ziegler said Nixon "knows that he has not been involved in the wrongdoing as charged" and plans to concentrate his energies now on legislative and foreign policy matters.

Meanwhile, Ford vigorously defended Nixon at a news conference.

He pictured Nixon as "in good health mentally and physically" and said he received assurances during a one-hour, 45-minute meeting Monday that "the President was not involved" in the apparently deliberate erasure of an 18½-minute portion of a key Watergate tape.

Aside from Ford, however, there was little sign that key Republicans on Capitol Hill planned to speak out in Nixon's behalf.

Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H. who already has announced he won't seek re-election, told reporters he sees "no reason why we shouldn't rally around our President."

At a Republican Policy Committee meeting during the day, Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott repeated his contention that the White House has material available that would absolve Nixon of the charge by John W. Dean III that he was part of the Watergate cover-up.

Later, however, sources said the special Watergate prosecutor's office had not found evidence to contradict Dean's testimony before grand juries and the Senate Watergate committee.

The source also said that Scott may have been mistaken, that he believes he is familiar with the material Scott has seen and that it does not disprove Dean's testimony.

Tax breaks for big oil companies hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The controversial issues of gasoline rationing and energy conservation have taken a temporary back seat to a growing congressional demand for a change in the tax breaks given big oil.

President Nixon, in an energy message to Congress today, was expected to include his own proposal to tax excess profits by the oil companies.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said, "Our tax policy, instead of encouraging energy development in the U.S., has made the Arab nations self-sufficient." He spoke Tuesday as his investigations subcommittee wound up its second day of quizzing oil company executives on the extent of the energy crisis.

Senate Finance chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., who last month led a filibuster against emergency energy legislation because of a provision to limit excess profits by the oil industry, said he would be willing to support tax legislation that would induce the companies to turn their attention to exploration and development at home.

The emergency bill, which would give President Nixon power to order gas rationing and mandatory energy conservation measures, remained stalled by the continuing threat of a filibuster by Republicans and oil-state senators who oppose the excess profits provision. Long said he would not join the filibuster this time, but other senators vowed to stop the bill from ever coming to a vote.

Jackson, who is the bill's floor manager, said a vote on shutting off debate would come early next week.

After executives from the seven leading oil firms told his subcommittee that the United States would require up to 15 years to become self-sufficient in energy, even with the incentive of high oil prices, Jackson said a rollback in the price of crude oil was called for. "This is a completely different tune than we've been hearing on the floor of the Senate — that taking the lid off price would result in more oil."

Two of the seven executives predicted gasoline prices would increase by 10 to 15 cents per gallon this year.

Meanwhile, Cities Service Co. became the first of the large oil companies to report its profits for the fourth quarter of 1973, when the impact of the energy crisis began to be felt.

Cities Service said its preliminary profits for the last quarter of 1973 were $42.1 million, an increase of almost 50 per cent over the same period in 1972.

On the subject of tax reform, Jackson said that for starters the "foreign tax credit has got to be chopped off." Under that credit, oil companies can deduct from their U.S. taxes royalties and other payments to foreign governments.

At a hearing of the Senate Finance Committee, Mortimer Caplin, former Internal Revenue Commissioner, and Jerome Kurtz, former Treasury tax expert, agreed with Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., that Congress should consider cutting back or ending such tax benefits.

Ribicoff, a member of both the Finance Committee and the investigations subcommittee, said that last year Texaco paid federal taxes at a rate of 1.7 per cent, compared with the average 48 per cent rate paid by most American companies. Texaco vice president Annon M. Card argued that Ribicoff was looking at only "a portion of the tax picture" and said that in 1971 Texaco paid worldwide taxes amounting to 50 per cent of net income.

The American Automobile Association said the number of gasoline stations closing early and limiting fuel purchases increased during the past week.

Bonus bill, land restoration eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State representatives scheduled votes today on bills enabling payment of the Vietnam veterans' bonus and requiring restoration of lands damaged by oil and gas drilling.

The latter probably will touch off the first floor debate this year on the energy crisis, and test the lawmakers' feelings about the environment in view of the fuel shortage.

Rep. Robert J. Boggs, D-97 Jefferson, introduced the bill last May, and it has been in the House Rules Committee since July 10, long before the energy crisis became a household concern in Ohio.

The bill, patterned to some degree after Ohio's tough strip mining law which that industry now wants to relax, requires the posting of bond to assure that owners and operators of wells reclaim drilled land to meet prescribed standards.

Rep. Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, predicted passage of his bill that spells out the right of Ohio's Vietnam era veterans to receive double their bonuses, otherwise to be paid in cash up to a maximum $500, if they elect to spend them for educational benefits.

The measure is needed to implement the $300 million bonus authorized by voters in the Nov. 6 election. Passage of the immediately-effective emergency bill would permit payments within the next few weeks, provided there is no snag in administrative procedures.

In floor action, the House voted 60-27 to streamline laws that say Ohioans may petition their government through the procedures of initiative and referendum.

Among other things, the bill states that a petition may not be invalidated if signatures are obtained in more than one county. It also does away with a requirement that the signer must designate on the scene his ward and

TGE still plaguing area swine farmers

Many Fayette County pork producers who haven't had to deal with transmissible gastroentiritis (TGE) in several years are feeling the effects of the latest serious outbreak of the disease.

Hundreds of newborn pigs have been wiped out by the disease, which has hit Ohio's top pork-producing counties the heardest.

TGE is nothing new to hog farmers, and in fact is present on various hog lots every year. But this year's outbreak is much more widespread than usual, threatening significant portions of this year's hog crop.

TGE has historically been noted as running six-year cycles. The largest outbreaks occur every five or six years. Older hogs who have had the disease build up an immunity to it and pass this immunity on to their offspring. However, this immunity generally weakens after five or six years, according to Dr. Harry E. Goldstein, state animal industry chief.

JOHN GRUBER, Fayette County extension agent, emphasized that TGE is nothing new or unusual to pork producers, but is occurring on many more farms than usual this year. He added that some farmers have had to contend with it every year for several years.

This year's outbreak is not considered "typical TGE", since the symptoms are not exactly the same as in the past.

In the past, if one group of sows on a farm contracted the disease, it affected almost all of the sows sooner or later. This year, however, cases of sows with TGE have been noted right next to unaffected sows.

The heavy ice and snow that blanketed Fayette County and most of the rest of Ohio the first two weeks of January is believed to have contributed to the outbreak. Flocks of starlings were driven indoors by the ice to find food, and found plenty available in hog barns, Gruber explained. They brought the disease to the barns and got it started.

ALTHOUGH the thaw of the past week has raised hope among some farms that the starlings will spread out, Gruber cautioned that the birds are

President sends energy proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today to reduce the tax breaks available to U.S. oil companies operating overseas and to ease the demands of present clean air laws.

The President sent Congress a new energy message urging passage of the emergency legislation previously proposed and adding some new proposals.

Nixon's new measure would, if adopted:

—Eliminate the 22 per cent depletion allowance granted U.S. companies producing oil abroad.

—Reduce the amount of foreign income tax which U.S. oil companies can credit directly against their taxes in the United States.

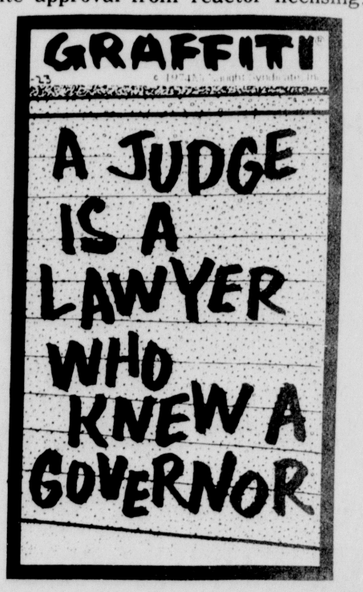

—Extend for two more years the emission standards now applying to 1975 automobiles.

—Remove the present requirement for a 90 per cent reduction in nitrogen oxide emissions in 1976 cars.

—Extend the legal deadline for meeting clean air standards in metropolitan areas which otherwise would need "unreasonable transportation controls."

—Permit temporary relaxation of clean air deadlines and requirements for power plants and other sources which cannot get an adequate supply of clean energy.

—Speed the licensing and construction of atomic power plants by encouraging standardized plant designs, establishing an inventory of approved locations for future power plants and separating the questions of site approval from reactor licensing.

Library board wins tax appeal judgment

The Ohio Board of Tax Appeals has allocated a total of $90,541.17 from the 1974 Fayette County classified property tax fund to the Carnegie Public Library Board of Trustees for 1974 operations.

The judgment was reached by the Ohio Board of Tax Appeals after a hearing on an appeal filed by the Carnegie Public Library Board of Trustees against the Fayette Budget Commission and the Fayette County Board of Commissioners.

The appeal was filed Sept. 21 after the Fayette County Budget Commission allocated the library board $60,822 of the $95,000 estimated 1974 classified property tax fund.

In its notice of appeal, the Carnegie Public Library Board of Trustees had requested a sum of $95,137.04 for its 1974 operations.

The matter was submitted to the Board of Tax Appeals on the notice of appeal and the testimony and evidence was presented at a hearing Dec. 14 in Columbus.

ACCORDING TO the Board of Tax Appeals, upon consideration of the matter, it appeared that in the September-October distribution of the classified property tax the library board was given, in addition to the amount that it was originally allocated, the sum of $16,000 in residue. It further stated that sometime during the first part of December the library board of trustees transferred $22,000 from the general fund to its building and repair fund. The transfer was made under the provisions of the Ohio Revised Code.

From the testimony and evidence, the Board of Tax Appeals judged that the library board, prior to the $22,000 transfer of funds, had about $29,803 in its building and repair fund. After the transfer, it would therefore have

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Scarcely noticed in a blizzard of developments, a secondstring arms race around the Arab East periphery makes for melancholy commentary on long-range hopes for tranquility in that sensitive region.

The Middle East ordinarily is complex enough. The world oil crisis made matters vastly more complicated, and what goes on in the Persian Gulf area might look to a detached observer at times as if dictated by some sort of demented logic.

The whole Middle East long has been vulnerable to the perils of a superpower showdown. After each explosion, Moscow proceeds to rearm Syria and Egypt and Washington to rearm Israel.

Yet there is a suspicion Moscow used its leverage as a source of arms to squeeze Syria into at least listening to settlement proposals. There's a similar suspicion that the United States used access to American arms as an arm-twisting device in Israel. There is even a Tel Aviv report that Israel is producing electronic weaponry to reduce her dependency on U.S. arms.

For all of this apparent fear of arms buildups, however, an odd picture is unfolding of spirited Western competition to peddle arms in the Arab East. Lately British, French and Americans have been prowling the Persian Gulf area seeking arms deals with sheiks and princes. This began before there was any thought of a settlement on the war fronts, even before the October war began.

The French and British both landed arms contracts in the Arabian peninsula before the outbreak of the October war. Now French diplomacy is highly and competitively visible in Saudi Arabia in the wake of a new deal to deliver weaponry plus industrial equipment and knowhow in return for a guaranteed flow of oil.

The United States professes anxiety about "maintaining the arms balance" in the Middle East, but Americans also are heavily involved in the competition to sell arms in the Gulf area.

The Arab East's northern tier is made up of two potentially powerful elements, one with large amounts of Russian arms, the other possessing large amounts of U.S. military hardware.

South of that tier there is the spectacle, for example, of Abu Dhabi, a tiny desert emirate of 80,000, spending oil riches for a swarm of French Mirage jets, perhaps 32 in all. Abu Dhabi has an army of 8,000 with Pakistani, Jordanian and British officers, an unlikely match for any strong enemy.

Deaths, Funerals

Clarence M Mitchell

Clarence M. Mitcheli, 69, of 635 Harrison St., died at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in his home.

Born in Ross County, Mr. Mitchell moved to Washington C.H. 11 years ago from Sabina. He was a retired independent truck driver.

He is survived by his wife, Margaret; a son, Clarence Jr., of Dayton; a brother, Lester, of Sabina; two half-brothers, Harold Morris, of Sabina, and Raymond Morris, of near Washington C.H.; three sisters, Mrs. Elsie Mitchell, Mrs. Effie Croft and Mrs. Vica Sword, all of Sabina; a half-sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Diedrich, of Tipp City; a step-son, Darrell Leisure, 240 Curtis St., and one granddaughter.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday in the Parrett Funeral Home with the Rev. Robert Kline, pastor of the Gregg Street Church of Christ in Christian Union, officiating. Burial will be in Sabina Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Otey C. Reynolds Jr.

Friends here have learned of the death of Otey C. Reynolds Jr., 59, of Pinellas Park, Fla. Mr. Reynolds died Jan. 17 of an apparent heart attack while driving his car with Mrs. Reynolds near their home. They are former residents of Fayette County, but moved to Florida two years ago following retirement.

Surviving are his wife, Esther G. Rhoads Reynolds; two sons and one daughter, all of Florida; and his parents, who live in another state.

The body was donated to science and research.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Actor Hans Conried was reported in fair condition at Mount Carmel East hospital here early today after collapsing last night following a performance at a suburban dinner theatre.

Conried reportedly suffered a stroke.

The actor was appearing in the play, "How the Other Half Lives."

Beef prices rising again

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

It's budget stretching time again for millions of Americans who are finding beef prices on the rise after a brief spell of stability.

An Associated Press survey shows beef prices at the retail level rose 10 and 20 cents a pound on most items in the past two weeks.

The boosts reflect higher wholesale costs — up about 25 or 30 per cent since the beginning of December. People in the industry say the higher wholesale costs are the result of production cutbacks that stemmed from last year's freeze.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, reporting on the Consumer Price Index, said Tuesday that retail food costs during 1973 rose 20.1 per cent. The December boost was three-tenths of one per cent.

At Shaw's supermarket chain in New England, lean hamburger was selling for $1.29 a pound this week. Last week, the price was $1.09 a pound and a year ago it was 99 cents. That's an increase of about 30 per cent over one year.

Eugene Owens, the meat buyer for Shaw's, blamed wholesale price rises. "It's been nothing but up every day for six weeks," he said. "We held as long as we could. And from what we can tell, it looks like prices will hold at the higher level for the next two or three months."

A spokesman for Fisher Foods Inc. in Cleveland, Ohio, said that in the past three weeks ground beef went from 88 to 98 cents a pound. He said the wholesale prices leveled off this week, but added: "Everything we've heard nationally is that prices are going to go up until spring."

$51,803, the Board of Tax Appeals noted.

"With respect to the actual need for the enlargement of the present library the Board of Tax Appeals finds that such an actual need exists and that the library trustees therefore had the authority to make the transfer," the document issued by the board said.

The document further stated that, "giving effect to this determination and also taking into consideration the actual needs of the library for 1974 operations, the Board of Tax Appeals finds that the appellant (the library board) has actual needs of $90,541.17 from the classified property tax fund for its 1974 operations."

Representing the library board were Omar A. Schwart, a Washington C.H. attorney, and Norton R. Webster, a Columbus attorney. The Fayette County Budget Commission and Fayette County Commissioners were represented by Robert L. Simpson, former assistant county prosecuting attorney.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has predicted that the Arab oil embargo will be lifted before the projected 40-day disengagement of Israeli and Egyptian forces is completed.

"We have had every reason to believe that success in the negotiations would mark a major step toward ending the oil embargo. We would therefore think that failure to end the embargo in a reasonable time would be highly inappropriate," Kissinger said Tuesday at his first news conference since returning from the Middle East.

Asked whether he believed the embargo would be lifted after the 40-day disengagement period, Kissinger said, "I think in more ambitious terms."

Then he was asked whether he thinks it will be ended sooner and Kissinger replied, "Yes."

Kissinger stressed that the United States did not commit itself to new obligations in the Mideast talks.

"Both sides found it easier to accept a U.S. proposal as to the limitation of their forces than to accept limitations which seemed to be demanded by the other side," Kissinger said.

This "does not constitute a U.S. guarantee, it was a device by which the United States made it possible to convey to the other their acceptance of certain limitations on the armaments," the secretary of state said.

However, Kissinger acknowledged that the United States will be involved in the Middle East if the agreement breaks down.

While Kissinger explained in his usual scholarly fashion the U.S. role in the Middle East, he was obviously irritated when asked what he knew about the activities of the plumbers, the White House intelligence group.

Kissinger denied that he misled the Senate Foreign Relations Committee when he testified about the plumbers last fall.

But he said he was aware that David R. Young Jr., who worked for him at the White House before he was transferred to the plumbers, investigated the leak at the National Security Council, which Kissinger still heads.

MINOR INJURY — A 19-year-old student at the Fayette Progressive School received a fractured collar bone when she was struck by this car on Temple Street Wednesday morning. Donna Smalley, Bloomingburg-New Holland Rd., was treated and released from Fayette Memorial Hospital. After striking the girl, the auto spun around in the street and struck a parked car on the other side.

Auto injures young student near school

A 19-year-old Fayette County girl received minor injuries Wednesday morning when she was struck by an automobile on Temple Street at Washington Junior High School. She was treated and released from Fayette Memorial Hospital after receiving treatment for a fractured clavicle.

Donna Smalley, 19, Bloomingburg-New Holland Rd., who is a student at the Fayette County Progressive School, was struck as she rushed across the street to greet a friend after arriving for school at 9:45 a.m.

THE DRIVER of the auto, Jay D. Gordon, 21, Rt. 1, Washington C.H. and his passenger James W. Baughn III, 21, Palmer Rd., were en route to Municipal Court where they were to appear on charges of possession of marijuana.

The driver swerved in an attempt to avoid the girl, but was unable to do so. The car then spun in the street and collided with a parked car on the other side.

No one has been cited as yet, and city police are continuing their investigation.

Ironically, under normal circumstances neither the girl nor the two young men would have been on the street at the time of the accident. School begins at 9:30 a.m., but the bus was running late. The trial was scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m., but as they were driving here from Columbus, the defendants encountered a flat tire putting them behind schedule.

The trial, resulting from charges filed by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department July 15, has been postponed at the request of the defendants.

Sponsoring Rep. Michael G. Oxley, R-82 Findlay, said the Senate-passed bill is needed "to streamline and bring up to date the initiative and referendum procedures here in Ohio." The bill now goes to the governor.

The House also added its approval to Senate bills revising licensing procedures for podiatrists and revamping the makeup of the State Parole Board. Passed and sent to the Senate were proposals revising fees for the handling of security interests in personal property, and allowing the state to charge six per cent interest on sales and use tax bills due for 30 days or longer.

Nine new bills were introduced in the House, including a proposal by Rep. Donna Pope, R-12 Parma, strengthening laws against indecent exposure. The bill is needed, she said, because of an omission in the drafting of Ohio's new criminal code.

Another new House bill, by Rep. James Mueller, D-74 Chesterland, would take away from the newly created Ohio Power Siting Commission the authority to designate the locations of new plants and utility lines. Mueller said he wants local authorities to make such decisions.

Senators acted on one bill at their brief floor session. They passed and sent to the House a bill that allows county commissioners as well as cities to force homeowners near new sewer lines to tap into the facilities.

Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, offered a new Senate measure that would allow police and firemen to purchase military credit toward their retirement.

still likely to search for food in barns, as they have already found them to be good food sources.

Disease control in hog lots has always been a big problem for farmers, especially when sows are farrowing. TGE and other diseases are easily spread when sows are nursing and caring for their young.

Originally concentrated in Fayette, Madison and Clark counties, the TGE outbreak has reached into Clinton, Highland and other neighboring counties. It has been spotted all over the state, although that is not unusual. Southern Ohio counties, however, are feeling most of the burden of the increased incidence of TGE.

Ohio faces another turn to colder weather with a movement of a cold front into the state Tuesday night, with showers along and following the front. Showers can change to snow flurries in the northern counties today, the Weather Service reported.

Temperatures ahead of the front were in the 50s over much of the state and even registered in the low 60s in the extreme south Tuesday night. Colder air spreading in from the northwest dropped readings into the 30s in the northwestern counties early Wednesday and most areas of the state will see steady or falling temperatures today.

Reports indicated most rainfall amounts to around a half inch or less early Wednesday.

On the early morning map the cold front extended from the northeast to the southwest corners of the state and the front is expected to move on eastward to the east of the Appalachians today. Showers and flurries will end from the west as the front moves out and some clearing is likely in the northwestern counties by late afternoon.

Sunny skies on Thursday will see afternoon temperatures in the upper 30s north and in the 40s over the rest of the state.

The weather will be mild Friday through Sunday with a chance of showers. Highs will be in the upper 40s and the 50s. Lows will be in the 30s.

Preliminary plans launched for 1974 Home Show event

Preparations for the 1974 Fayette County Home Show were launched at an initial planning meeting held Wednesday in the Washington Savings Bank.

Steve Reisinger, chairman of the 1974 event, said this year's Home Show will be held the weekend of April 5-6-7 in the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairground.

The committee also agreed to follow the same booth setup procedure as has been custom in the past; announced that prizes will be awarded every half-hour during the event and announced that one major prize will be awarded at the end of each three days.

Information will be forwarded to past exhibitors. The prospective exhibitors will be given until March 13 to reserve booth space they held at last year's show.

CARD OF THANKS

Thanks to everyone who was so nice to remember me during my stay in the hospital.

Special thanks to my Pastor, Rev. Robert Kline, Rev. Copley, Rev. Russell. Rev. Richmond and Edwin Rumer for their prayers and visits. To Dr. Gebhart, all the girls on the 400 and Central Wings. Also my room-mate Mrs. John Boltenhouse. To Clara Smallwood, Dorothy & Shirley Wimer, George and Betty Wonderleigh & daughters, Mrs. George Carrigan, Mrs. Steve Sokola and my Sunday School Class at Gregg St. Church for the beautiful flowers. To my sister, Mrs. Steve Sokola and my neighbor, Mrs. John Speakman for watching our little boy and to all my visitors and the beautiful cards I received. May God Bless Everyone.

Stock prices up slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market clung to modest gains today and appeared to be drifting.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was up 2.69, little changed from a half-hour earlier but half what it was near the opening. Advances led declines on the New York Stock Exchange by 7 to 4.

Analysts said the market's early strength was a continuation of Tuesday's nearly 9-point rise in the Dow, which was prompted by optimistic forecasts of an early end to the Arab oil embargo.

Teleprompter, which has been up recently since a government study recommending less regulation of the cable-television industry, fell 1⅜ to 6⅝ in active trading.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index at noon was up .63 at 96.01, while the NYSE composite index was up .03 at 51.59.

Kissinger denies story

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC News says it has learned that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told two high-level Israeli ministers he believes President Nixon will leave office within the next six months.

NBC later said Kissinger termed the report an "outrageous lie."

NBC did not give its sources for the report.

New chance for the checkoff

Quite a bit has been made of the Internal Revenue Service's moves to simplify this year's income tax forms and instructions. No longer will taxpayers have to list names and dates in claiming medical deductions, or to name groups to which they make charitable contributions. A separate schedule for reporting dividends and interest will not be required. And so on, all in the name of making it easier to fill out the form.

That is welcome news, but another change is of greater significance. This has to do with the checkoff system whereby the taxpayer may designate a dollar to be used in financing presidential elections. Not only can this be done with regard to the 1976 election, but also taxpayers who did not check off their dollar last year may do so this time around.

The checkoff system was a bust when first tried last year, but this new impetus should help to get it off the ground. That would be heartening, for this method of contributing could do much to ease the campaign financing problem.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

The Brotherhood of Eternal Love

One may suppose that it began in all innocence. Toward the end of his life, Aldous Huxley, who had moved from London to Southern California many years before, wrote about "expanding" the consciousness through the use of mysterious Mexican drugs. In his "Brave New World" he had talked, satirically, about calming people with "half a gram of soma," and here he had fallen, in his late middle age, for his own mechanized — or should it be chemicalized? — Utopia.

Aldous Huxley obviously meant no harm. Nor, we may grant, did Dr. Timothy Leary when he confused Huxley's mind expansion with mind blowing.

Timothy Leary, dearie, was not weary in attempted well-doing. In October, 1966, in partnership with Dr. Richard Alpert, he incorporated a tax-exempt "religious corporation" in the State of California. He called his organization the Brotherhood of Eternal Love.

BLISS WAS IT in that dawn of 1966 to be alive to tune in, turn on, and drop out, maybe by accident from an LSD-induced fall from a second-story window. The stuff uncorked by Dr. Leary was far more potent for hallucination than Aldous Huxley's half a gram of soma. The unfortunate doctor, with the help of the Weathermen, escaped from jail and high-tailed for Algeria for a rendezvous with Eldridge Cleaver, the revolutionary Panther, but eventually he was coralled by the law again and returned to the clink.

His Brotherhood of Eternal Love, meanwhile, had come under the investigation of Sen. James O. Eastland's Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. The senator had no call to be doing religious research, but it seems that one of the tenets of the Brotherhood of Eternal Love's peculiar faith was large-scale passport fraud. A check of 250 Brotherhood passport files has revealed 130 cases of fraudulent use of passports.

As it has turned out, the chief business of the traveling Brotherhood has been dope peddling. Originally it was marijuana. But in 1969 members of the Brotherhood began specializing in concocting "orange sunshine" (LSD) at a laboratory outside San Francisco. Enough powder to make 14 million LSD tablets was seized from the Brotherhood just last year, which has led the Eastland subcommittee to say Timothy Leary's "religion" had become the largest manufacturer and distributor of LSD in the world.

When "orange sunshine" began scaring the kids, whose bad trips were becoming altogether too frequent, the pressure was on the Brotherhood to turn to hashish smuggling. This is where the passport frauds really helped.

With or without legal passports the brothers went everywhere. Three of them traveled to Afghanistan, where they purchased 125 pounds for $15 a pound. They smuggled it to California, where it sold for $900 a pound. This, so the Eastland report tells us, was the first of nearly 24 tons of hashish smuggled into the U.S. from Afghanistan, Lebanon, and India by the Brotherhood.

BIG BUSINESS. And what a business. The taste for marijuana has unquestionably led to the yearning for stronger stuff. In 1968, hashish seizure in the U.S. was a mere 534 pounds. In 1972, the seizures had grown to 30,000 pounds. The presumption is that for every pound taken by the police, 10 pounds get through. Three hundred thousand pounds of hashish would generate millions of hashish highs.

And beyond hashish there is liquid hashish. Two or three drops of this can have horrible mind-blowing consequences.

A lot of people doubt that marijuana and its stronger derivatives do any irreparable harm. Dr. Olav Braenden, director of the UN Narcotics Laboratory in Geneva, who testified before Eastland, contradicts this notion. He finds that even small amounts of marijuana build up in the fatty tissues, in the brain, and in the gonads, very much like DDT. Fed considerable amounts of the stuff, animals have produced offspring with deformities—in a manner, so Eastland says, that "resembles the damage done by thalidomide."

Eastland speaks of "playing genetic Russian roulette." What a business for an organization called the Brotherhood of Eternal Love.

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

THURSDAY, JAN. 24

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Keep all things "in line," but avoid anxiety or worrisome anticipation of trouble. Conflict of interests in certain areas? You should enjoy the challenge.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Don't enter activities in which you are not particularly interested just because someone else wants to. There are some suggestions you should reject.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

You may not progress as rapidly as you wish, may receive fewer gains than you expected. But keep at it — with patience — and you will achieve much.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

You may overreach your mark now because of anxiety or miscalculation. Try to avoid this by taking things in stride and, in all things, follow well-tested procedures.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Good solar influences. Plan a well-balanced program and be thoughtful in making decisions. Weigh all offerings astutely.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

You may encounter some baffling, even irritating situations. Regard them as part of the overall pattern and reflect carefully before jumping to conclusions.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Don't overlook definite obligations because of a desire to "try something new." Emphasize the Libran's innate stability.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Don't wait too long before attacking a problem or handling an assignment, or day's end will find you in a state of "nerves," trying to offset your procrastination.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Put fervor and ardent ambition into this fine day, and stress optimism. That is often all that is needed to insure success. Better than average opportunities.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Wait for cues before launching any project. If not on guard, you could get into difficult situations or needless complications.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Stress your foresightedness now in order to prevent witless errors. Don't leap at ideas or suggestions made by those who can misguide through a pleasing manner.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

A day in which to spread your wings a bit — if time and obligations permit. Staying in a rut never helped anyone.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a fine intellect, a gregarious personality and extremely lofty ambitions. You have a vivid imagination and have a high regard for artistry and education in all their forms. Dignity and grace are strong in your Sign, but there are also tendencies toward excessive volubility. These should be curbed. You would make an excellent lecturer, journalist, linquist, teacher, interior decorator or writer.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

At the last council meeting, I raised an objection on the raise that they awarded the Municipal Court judge. They informed me due to the new law passed they had no other choice. My reason for objecting was that the judge was not a resident of this town. But the city solicitor informed me that Mr. Winegardner established his practice here in 1939, and that because he pays his taxes, buys his auto tags and votes here that makes him a resident.

There are other professionals and business people the same but aren't allowed to vote in town because they live out of the city limits. I was told that he only used his Columbus address for sleeping only. So I questioned them on the municipal court cost for last year. As the judge's salary was only $6,000 and he felt that he should have more. I was told to check it out with the auditor. This I did, here is the rundown of that court's expense.

Judges' salary, $6,000; clerk, $6,261.04; deputy clerk, $4,267.44; deputy clerk, $3,361.92; deputy clerk, $3,000; another clerk, $962.65, clerk typist, $1,178.78; acting judge's salary, $1,947.05. That's almost one third of the judge's salary. It has cost the city more for one clerk than the judge. That's a total $19,031.83 for clerks, another $1,947.05, which comes to $20,978 and with the judge's wages it is $26,978.88.

This is just to run the court that doesn't include the deputy clerk in Jeffersonville and the bailiff. The judge in the past stated that he ran an efficient court. I wonder.

Brokerage firm closing doors

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street, battered for the past year by a series of financial problems, is absorbing the news of a new casulty.

The brokerage house, controlled by Texas multimillionaire H. Ross Perot, said Monday it would go out of business as soon as it could sell its 143 branch offices and other assets.

"WHAT NEXT? INFLATION, THE MEAT SHORTAGE, THE DOLLAR CRISIS ---"

Hal Boyle . . Child power proves helpful

by BOB HARING
Associated Press Writer

Next he'll be big enough to be trusted with the power mower and Dear Old Dad can add a summer of no grass-cutting to the winter of no snow-shoveling and the fall of no leaf-raking.

This is the summit sighted when mother first announces that the first-born cleared the light snow from the sidewalk by himself for the first time.

But that joy is more a plateau than a peak.

Soon his excitement at being allowed to shovel the snow by himself, his thrill at being trusted with the growling mower will fade. The joy of manly chores dims with the arrival of interest in sports or girls — or both — or the higher motive of performing for pay the tasks his parents once granted grudingly as a reward for ascending boyhood.

In fairness, be it noted that such plateaus are not exclusively male domain. Girls may not pursue snow-shoveling or grass-cutting — although if that's their pleasure let 'em — but they follow similar trails through baby-sitting and dishwashing. The pig-tailed cutie who begged for the honor of dish-washing at 8 wails with homework, colds, urgent telephone calls and approaching paralysis when offered that chance at 15.

If a man is lucky, his supply of sons may provide years of relief from sidewalk and lawn.

It is a wise father who encourages the toddler to trail his big brother into the cold armed with a toy shovel and a willing spirit of imitation.

If there is a rule to such things, it is that the second son will start earlier than the first. And the third earlier still.

But the flame which burns earlier dies sooner and the boy who starts his snow removal career at 6 will weary of that job that many years earlier.

Possibly interest may be spurred in its declining moments by rotating the task. When two boys are equally capable of performing a chore, the one who's being honored gets designated — that sort of honor system psychologically gets more snow removed faster than a process which selects for the task the boy who's been least good most recently.

Among boys, tasks must be rotated though, and not shared.

The snow it takes one boy one hour to shovel takes two boys two hours.

Or, as the wise old men of the Ozark hills declared long ago:

One boy's a hand, two boys is half a hand and three boys ain't no hand at all.

DEAR ABBY: A Mr. A.W. Lyons of Prospect, Ky., wrote to say that man is the only animal that practices group sex. He is mistaken. Probably the best known example is the California sea hare.

Sea hares have a complete set of both male and female sex organs, and can assume either role. In laboratory studies, sea hares have been observed copulating in groups; as many as eight have copulated in a complete circle for as long as three days!

So, please pass this on to Mr. Lyons and your readers. We know of at least one other animal besides man that practices group sex. And wouldn't you know it would have to happen in California!

RICHARD JOSSLIN, Ph.d.

DEAR Dr. J.: The orgy you cite is no secret. It's recorded in the Natural History of Marine Animals. And by the way, Jane Goodall, who lived for ten years among wild chimpanzees while she studied them, reported that a female chimp named "Flo" had a battalion of suitors standing in line for her favors.

DEAR ABBY: I'm glad you told that 17-year-old girl to save herself for marriage. She said she'd heard that most fellows don't care if the girl they marry is a virgin or not.

I am 16, and I have made up my mind that on my wedding night I am going to be able to say to my husband, "Yes, Darling, YOU are the first!"

WAITING IN SEATTLE

DEAR WAITING: Lovely. And someday you may want to say, "And the first shall be the last."

DEAR ABBY: "Alone and Crying's" story was my story. I too loved my first husband with all my heart until one day he told me he no longer wanted the responsibility of marriage. As it turned out, he wanted the responsibility of another woman.

I also cried and begged and kissed him while he stood there "cold and unfeeling like a statue with his hand in his pockets."

Your advice, "quit begging and prepare to make a new life for yourself because good luck often comes disguised as disaster," was the most precious statement you ever wrote.

A year after my divorce I met the most wonderful man in the world. He is 100 times the man my first husband was. My salvation was getting involved with a good church Nazarene and through its activities came my good luck.

Please print this to let "Alone and Crying" know that it's not the end of the world for her. If I could make it, so can she.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Jan. 23, the 23rd day of 1974. There are 342 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1973, President Nixon announced an accord in the Vietnam war, with a cease-fire to begin on Jan. 27.

On this date:

In 1920, the Dutch refused to surrender ex-Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany to the Allies for punishment has a war criminal.

In 1943, in World War II, British troops entered the North African city of Tripoli.

In 1932, Franklin Roosevelt announced he was a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

In 1968, North Korea seized the U.S. Navy ship Pueblo and held the 83 crewmen as spies.

Thought for today: It matters not how a man dies, but how he lives — Samuel Johnson, English scholar, 1709-1784.

Rule out foul play in death of girl, 8

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Authorities have ruled out foul play in the death of a retarded, eight-year-old girl found in a vacant downtown building Monday, but said further tests would be necessary to pinpoint cause of death.

The body of Jennie Teresa Whyte of Cincinnati was found on the second story of the building by six teenagers. She had been missing nine days, police said.

An autopsy revealed she had died 24-48 hours earlier. Her body was badly dehydrated and she had not eaten in days, police said.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bad news for space buffs: The CBS, NBC and ABC television networks say they aren't planning live coverage of next month's return of the Skylab 3 astronauts from their record stay in space.

Unless there's a sudden change of mind, it'll be the first time in 19 of this nation's manned space flights that the networks have turned thumbs down on live coverage of the now-familiar splashdown.

They've missed only one — and not intentionally — since Dec. 16, 1965, when their tradition of live coverage of space homecomings began with the return of the Gemini 6 astronauts.

They had planned live coverage of the Gemini 8 splashdown in 1966, but were blanked out when the spacecraft had a serious malfunction and had to make an emergency landing in the Pacific, far from the eyes of the television camera.

Although a space agency spokesman says the networks indicated to him the "costs of coverage" were the primary reason for not televising the return of Skylab 3 live, two networks deny this.

ABC and CBS say the estimated $250,000 to $300,000 cost of live network pool coverage wasn't a factor. NBC declined to say whether it was.

All say it simply is a matter of news judgement. They'd rather use their time, manpower and money on other major stories they now feel are more important than live coverage of the Skylab 3 return.

If all goes as planned, the Skylab 3 astronauts, who roared off into space Nov. 16, are scheduled to return to earth Feb. 8 at 11:14 a.m. EDT.

The space agency says they'll splash down in the Pacific Ocean about 250 miles southwest of San Diego and be picked up by men and aircraft from the helicopter carrier USS New Orleans.

Unlike the previous 19 homecomings from space, no equipment for satelliting live or videotape pictures of the astronauts' return will be on the carrier, the networks say.

But their television teams, of course, will be aboard the ship with other newsmen and will videotape the splashdown and recovery operations and the ceremonies welcoming the astronauts home.

If no major delays develop during all this, a Navy aircraft will fly the videotape to San Diego for pickup by the networks, hopefully in time for their regular evening news programs.

The next manned U.S. space flight isn't scheduled until July 1975. It'll involve not only our astronauts, but also those of Russia.

Tire firms seeking end to controls

WASHINGTON (AP)—Contending the energy crisis is causing a decline in sales, tire company executives asked the Cost of Living Council Tuesday to lift price controls from the industry.

B.F. Goodrich President Patrick C. Ross aid the industry is faced with an expected 4.5 per cent drop in sales this year and noted that tire shipments in December were off 10 per cent from a year earlier.

He said the main causes were the slowdown in auto sales, the gasoline shortage and reduced highway speeds.

"If the energy crisis were a compelling consideration in the decontrol of the automobile industry, it should be even more so in the case of the tire and inner tube industry," Ross said.

The council has granted the tire companies a two-step increase since the Phase 4 price controls program began. It estimates that price increases sought by eight tire companies would total $209 million.

Earlier, the director of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., Edward F. Carter, said his company estimates that tire material costs will rise 50 per cent by mid-year over 1972 costs, largely because of higher oil prices.

He said from six to seven gallons of oil are needed to manufacture a tire, including four to five gallons of raw materials and two gallons for energy.

B.F. Goodrich has proposed a price increase of 4.86 per cent and Firestone is seeking a price hike of 4.45 per cent. Ross said that although Goodrich earnings were up in 1973, they were not adequate. While the government's price controls have helped keep down tire prices, labor and material costs have not been adequately restrained, he indicated.

Guilty plea made in embezzlement

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A 68-year-old former newspaper promotions manager has turned state's witness by changing his plea to guilty in connection with the embezzling of $161,066 from a charity fund.

Stanley Dahlman, who was fired from The Cincinnati Post last fall when the discrepancies surfaced, earlier pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

His attorney said Dahlman would make restitution of $85,000.

His secretary Mrs. Delores Haynes, 40, and her husband, Everett, 53, have also been indicted in the disappearance of Post-Firemen's Mile of Dimes funds between 1970 and 1973.

'Open house' is planned for golden anniversary

Dr. and Mrs. L.M. Tarbill of 25 Crest Ridge Drive, New Holland, will observe their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday.

"Open house" will be held at their home from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday for all their relatives, family and friends.

Dr. and Mrs. Tarbill are the parents of one son, Dr. Dean Tarbill, also of New Holland, and one daughter, Mrs. Roger (Peggy) Grier of Toledo.

Dr. Tarbill and the former Marguerite Williams were married in Columbus, while he was a student at Ohio State University. Following graduation in 1926, he spent four years with the State Bureau of Animal Industry on 'Bovine Tuberculosis Eradication.' He came to New Holland in 1930, and was involved mainly in large animal work.

In 1954 he was joined by his son, and as changes occurred in veterinary service, they established the "Tarbill Small Animal Clinic," which they still own and operate.

NURSE GRADUATE — Mrs. Jean Paul Davis, R.N., wife of Major Darrell F. Davis, ret., 614 Broadway, graduated recently from nurse's training at Columbus Technical Institute in Columbus. She is the daughter of the late Mrs. Nell R. Paul, a teacher in the Washington City School system for several years, and the mother of two, Jim of Vancouver, Wash., and Mrs. Karen Curl of Sabina.

Miss Gordon speaks to Zeta CCL

The January meeting of Zeta Child Conservation League took place in the home of Mrs. Larry Bishop when Sheila Gordon, AFS student at Miami Trace High School, presented slides of her native South Africa. A discussion of morals in the United States and Africa took place.

Mrs. Clinton Gilmore conducted the meeting and presented devotions. Seventeen members were welcomed and Mrs. Bruce Ream was a guest. Mrs. Jim Tuvell made a report of the philanthropic committee project. Members voted to purchase a surgical pad and matress to be given to Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Phil Grover, Mrs. Russell Klontz and Mrs. Larry Bishop.

MISS KATHLEEN J. BENNETT

May wedding is planned

Mrs. Marian Bennett of Cincinnati has announced the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter Kathleen Joy to John Alan Graham.

Miss Bennett, a 1969 graduate of Mount Healthy High School, will graduate from Cincinnati Bible Seminary with a bachelor of science degree in English and Bible in May.

Her fiance, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mr. and Mrs. William Graham, 736 E. Temple St., is a 1967 graduate of Washington High School and of Cincinnati Bible Seminary in 1971. He is presently news director of WHKK radio in Erlinger, Ky.

A May 25 wedding is being planned in the Northern Hills Church of Christ in Cincinnati.

DECORATING TIPS:

Fabric shades are a pretty answer to a window decorating problem. They are easy to install, easy to use, and control light, too. If your decorating budget is small, cover the shades yourself.

Purchase new shades or use old ones that are in good shape. Be sure the shade is properly installed and in good working order. One tip—when completely rolled up, the fabric covered shade will be about twice the size of a plain shade. You'll need to use adjustable brackets that can be extended to hold the large roll.

Firm, closely woven fabric are easiest to manage. Trim the selvages and press out any folds and wrinkles.

Do all your work on a firm surface such as a large table or a bare floor. Unroll the shade leaving 1½ to 2 full turns on the roller. Measure the width of the shade and the length plus two inches to turn under at the bottom. Using these measurements, cut and fit the fabric to each shade individually. Press the fabric again and roll the right side of the fabric to the inside of the roll.

Several kinds of adhesives are available. White liquid glue mixed with and aqual amount of water gives good results. Apply the glue with a small paint brush.

Starting at the bottom of the shade, spread the glue mixture evenly over the entire width and about 2 feet of the length of the shade. Allowing two inches to turn under at the bottom, fit the fabric to the shade. Unroll the shade a few inches at a time; with your hands, press the fabric upward and outward onto the glued shade. Continue to glue and press until the shade is completed.

With a small brush, touch up the edges of both sides with the glue mixture. This assures a good seal and prevents the fabric from reveling. Turn the shade over and glue the 2-inch allowance to the back of the shade.

Check the entire shade, smoothing the fabric firmly with your hands to get rid of any air bubbles or loose spots. Roll the shade up loosely and let dry thoroughly before hanging it in place.

WORKSHOP PLANNED

Fayette Cancer unit names new director

Mrs. Robert Barber, 732 Broadway, was named the new executive director of the Fayette County unit of the American Cancer Society Tuesday during a luncheon meeting at the Terrace Lounge. She replaces Mrs. William Heinz, 503 W. Circle Ave., whose resignation was accepted by the local chapter with regret. Mrs. Heinz had served since last May.

Mrs. Barber was chosen from a field of five applicants for the job. She served as adult activities director for the Wheeling, W. Va. Young Women's Christian Association and held an executive post in the employment field in Bellaire.

She also served on the Governor's Committee of Services to the Handicapped Worker. The mother of two children, she attended Ohio University.

MRS. CHARLENE BARBER

VOLUNTEERS FROM the Fayette County unit will attend a training session for the Cancer Society's 1974 crusade this weekend at the Neil House in Columbus.

Mrs. J. Talmadge Taylor, public imformation officer for the Fayette County unit, said the spirit of the meeting is expected to be one of "cautious optimism", due to the unknown factor introduced by the so-called fuel shortage.

"But if the response of the people of Ohio and Fayette County is as encouraging as the response to this training conference, the fuel shortage should have little effect on our reaching our goal of $4.4 million in Ohio."

During the conference, northeastern Ohio newscaster John Hambrick will be installed as chairman for the 1974 Ohio crusade. He replaces Cincinnati Bengals center Bob Johnson.

In attendance at Tuesday's luncheon meeting were Mrs. Barber, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Heinz, Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. Antoine, Mrs. William Fletcher, Mrs. Wayne Hidy, Mrs. Joe Henry, Jr., Dr. Joseph Herbert, Bart Mahoney, the Rev. Gerald Wheat and Reed.

Tax distribution plan to undergo changes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A new procedure for distributing tax money to counties will insure each county receiving at least $12,500 a month, the state auditor has announced.

State Auditor Joseph Ferguson said each county receives annually about $150,000, but the new procedure will space the payments more evenly.

Ferguson said $3.4 million has been distributed this month to Ohio's 88 counties and 335 cities and villages having local income taxes.

Testimony heard in mass murders

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Dean A. Corll, alleged mastermind in the slayings of 27 teenagers, shouted "kill me ... kill me" before he was shot to death last August, a witness has testified.

Timothy Kerley, 20, took the stand in a pretrial hearing on Tuesday and testified he was marked for death at a party in Corll's suburban Pasadena home last Aug. 8.

He said he was saved when Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, pulled a gun and shot the 33-year-old Corll five or six times.

Henley is to testify today at the pretrial hearing, being held in advance of Henley's murder trial in the death of Charles R. Cobble, 17.

Kerley, Henley and Rhonda Williams, 15, had passed out at the Corll home after sniffing paint and drinking beer and liquor. All three awoke to find themselves bound and gagged.

"I had enough sense to be aware that I was to be killed," Kerley testified.

Henley was released by Corll. Police have said Henley told them the other two were stripped nude and tied to a large plywood board in a bedroom.

Miss Williams also testified Tuesday. But she was allowed to give her account behind closed doors in the chambers of District Court Judge William Hatten because she is a juvenile.

"Wayne said, 'You've gone far enough, Dean.' Dean jumped up and ran at him with his hands raised and said, 'Kill me, Wayne, kill me.' And that's what he did," Kerley said.

Corll's death has been ruled self-defense.

"Wayne said maybe we should just leave. I said no, we should call the police, and he said okay," Kerley testified.

The three went out on the sidewalk after calling police. Henley then said "he had done that four or five times," Kerley testified.

Under questioning by defense lawyer Will Gray, Kerley said Henley had not said he had killed four or five persons, but that was what Kerley interpreted the statement to mean.

Henley is charged with six counts of murder in the slayings.

Richard Rouse named

Rouse has been vice president and general manager of the firm's Ohio Valley Division since March 1972. He is replaced by George G. Schneider.

Last chance to see Skylab

If you haven't seen Skylab yet, or if you want to see it again, this is your last chance. The Skylab III mission is scheduled to end on February 8, thus bringing an end to the Skylab program. Although the space station will remain in orbit, NASA will no longer be sending out predictions on when it will be visible, according to Rick Binzel, 542 Washington Ave.

To see Skylab for the final time, you will probably have to get up a little earlier in the morning than normal. The table gives the date, the approximate time that it will first become visible (all times are a.m.), and the direction which it will be traveling. Also given is the amount of time which it will be visible and its maximum elevation above the horizon. (90 degrees is directly overhead, 45 degrees would be halfway overhead etc.).

Driver escapes injury after truck accident

A Washington C.H. area veterinarian escaped injury after the truck he was driving was heavily damaged in an accident on U.S. 35 to 3:35 p.m. Tuesday.

Fayette County Sheriff's deputies said a truck driven by Dr. Dick R. Junk, 56, Rt. 5, Washington C.H., traveled off the roadway, 152 feet through a ditch, collided with a tree head-on and continued 27 more feet before striking a fence and gate owned by William B. Dunn, Rt. 6.

Deputies said the 1974 model truck, driven by Dr. Junk, was heavily damaged. Slight damage was reported to the fence.

Man fractures jaw in mishap

A young Washington C.H. man fractured his jaw in several places at 6 p.m., Tuesday, the result of an accident on a three-wheeled vehicle with balloon tires, according to city police.

John Penrod, 21, of 224 Draper St., hit an embankment behind the Washington Park swimming pool on Oakland Avenue. He was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital and later transferred to University Hospital in Columbus where he is listed in satisfactory condition.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported a driver who pulled into Garner's Union 76 service station at the intersection of U.S. 35 and I-71, pumped his own gas and drove away.

An attendant obtained the license number of the vehicle and contacted the owner. The owner stated he hadn't been the driver, but would pay for the gas.

Schools receive subsidy payments

Fayette County school districts received a net total of $114,132.74 in State School Foundation subsidy payments in January, the state Auditors' office reports.

Washington C.H. schools received a net allocation of $57,971.07 and Miami Trace schools received $56,161.67. The net figures are based on total basic and transportation allowances less deductions for retirement funds and allotments to the county board of education.

A net total of $46,189,993.80 was distributed to Ohio's 615 school districts for the month.

Two non-traffic cases are heard

Two persons were scheduled to appear before acting Judge John P. Case in Municipal Court Tuesday on non-traffic charges.

William W. Brunning, 66, Columbiana, pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication and was fined $10. He had been arrested by the police.

Peter L. Poling, 25, Greenfield, who was charged by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department with illegally dumping trash, failed to appear in court and forfeited $25 bond.

Jaycee annual banquet to be held tonight

A variety of awards will be presented to Washington C.H. Jaycees and other area citizens tonight at the annual Jaycees Bosses' Night banquet in the Terrace Lounge.

Highlighting the awards ceremonies will be the presentation of awards for honorary citizenship, distinguished service, the outstanding young farmer and educator of the year, and physical fitness.

Jaycee awards will include Jaycee of the year, outstanding first-year Jaycee and "Spoke" and "Spark Plug" awards.

The social hour will begin at 6 p.m., with the dinner following at 7 p.m. Ron Pohlman is the chairman of this year's banquet.

Church conference is scheduled here

The Fayette Bible Church will host a conference of the Ohio Bible Fellowship, which is made up of Bible churches across the state. Each year the Fellowship has four conferences in various parts of the state.

Pastors, staff and members of some 15 churches in the state will be here for the two days meeting. The Conference will begin at 2:30 p.m. Friday with meetings throughout Friday and Saturday.

The featured speaker this time will be the Rev. Ken Hay, of Roszmann, N.C. The theme of the fellowship meeting this year is "Reaching People For Christ Through Camping Activities."

Pastor Denny Howard of the Fayette Bible Church has indicated that the sessions are open for anyone who wishes to attend.

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM
Associated Press Writer

The anti-abortion movement in Ohio showed it was still alive and well Tuesday, staging rallies, marches, speeches and church services to mark the first anniversary of the U.S. Supreme Court decision legalizing most abortions.

Special observances were held in Columbus, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Toledo and other cities to commemorate what was called "Black Tuesday."

In Cincinnati, students from Edgecliffe College and St. Ursula Academy picketed the Cincinnati Women's Services, Inc., a clinic which claims it has performed 1,100 abortions this year.

The Roman Catholic Diocese of Toledo scheduled special worship services and prayer Tuesday. Jim Richards, diocese communications director, said all but one of northwestern Ohio's Catholic churches tolled their bells at noon to mark the anniversary.

St. Teresa's Catholic Church in downtown Toledo was unable to follow the request because the church has no bell. Instead, the 260 pupils and faculty at St. Teresa School formed a huge circle on the playground at noon Tuesday and prayed silently.

"Our children are concerned about the value of life and when they realized that for lack of a bell our church could not take part, they asked to do something special," said the Rev. Bernard Boff, St. Teresa pastor.

About 2,000 people attended a rally Tuesday night sponsored by the Toledo Foundation for Life organization. Those attending were told abortion is not a moral issue, but a matter of justice involving the rights of others, namely the unborn children.

The Rev. Michael Donovan, vice chancellor of the Columbus Roman Catholic Diocese, said the Tuesday observances were "an organized effort to rectify the court's decision and support a constitutional amendment for the sanctity of life.

"The right to give and take away life is God's," Father Donovan. "The Supreme Court is not the supreme being. It has usurped a right that belongs only to God."

"We believe many people do not understand what is at stake—the question of human life, itself."

Ailing gyro brings more Skylab worry

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Frequent faltering of a control gyroscope has prompted the early dispatch of the Skylab 3's prime recovery ship.

But space officials say astronauts Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson can probably complete their 12-week mission even if the ailing stabilizer breaks down.

"I have a good feeling we're going to go the 84 days — if the gods smile on us," said Skylab Program Director William C. Schneider.

Schneider said backup systems probably could hold the station steady without the gyro for the remaining 16 days of the mission.

Many scientific experiments would have to be curtailed, however.

"We should be prepared for it to go out at any time," Schneider said. "But hopefully it won't go out at all."

If it did fail, "we wouldn't come home in a rush" because control of the 85-ton station would shift automatically to computer-managed thruster systems, he said.

But, after the gyro acted up for more than 8 hours Tuesday, Schneider ordered the carrier USS New Orleans to leave for the splashdown zone off the California coast. It will sail on Saturday from San Diego, Calif., three days ahead of schedule.

The ship will be in position to retrieve the astronauts anytime starting Sunday. They are in the 68th day of the mission today, with splashdown set for Feb. 8.

Gregg Street Church sets youth service

The Gregg Street Church of Christ in Christian Union will hold Evangelical Christian youth service at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. The Shiloh Gospelaires, of Frankfort, will be the featured singers, and the Rev. Charles Ragland will be the guest speaker.

There is no admission charge.

County NAACP sets meeting

Harold C. Strickland, field director of the Ohio NAACP, will be attending a meeting of the Fayette County NAACP chapter at 5 p.m. Saturday.

Robert McClendon, president of the Fayette County chapter, said the meeting will be held at 815 Rawlings St.

No incidents in trucking shutdown

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP)—The State Highway Patrol said no new incidents of violence were reported Tuesday night in connection with trucker protests.

A patrol spokesman said traffic was flowing smoothly. He said patrolmen were following truckers in the area "with our cars, keeping the trucks moving."

Also reported at the Washington meeting was the editor of Overdrive Magazine, Mike Parkhurst, spokesman for a group of independent truckers who have scheduled another protest Jan. 31 over high fuel costs and speed limits.

Two East Liverpool men face vandalism charges for allegedly smashing the rear view mirror of a tractor-trailer rig on Ohio 11 Tuesday morning.

Sheriff's deputies said 45-year-old Thomas Hebron and 36-year-old George Cekovich were being held in Summit County jail in lieu of $1,000 bond. Deputies said a hearing was set for Thursday morning.

Fire authorities said the state fire marshal was being asked to investigate a fire which destroyed an Ashland Oil Co. truck near where protesting truckers were gathered.

Damage was estimated at $25,000.

Township trustee convention opens

About 30 officials from Fayette County are expected to be among the more than 2,500 attending the 46th convention of the Ohio State Association of Township Trustees and Clerks starting today in Columbus.

Headquartered at the Sheraton-Columbus Motor Hotel, the convention will last through Saturday. Highlighting the convention will be the election of officers for two-year terms. Among the candidates for offices is Robert Hines, Mt. Sterling, who is running for first vice president.

Some of the convention sessions will deal with revenue sharing, the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency and a "school for new trustees."

Fayette County's delegation will represent about 75 per cent of the 40 township officials in the county. The 1974 convention is expected to be the best-attended one in the organization's history.

Steel company death probed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Joe Shump, director of the Ohio Department of Industrial Relations, said Tuesday that statements by Jones and Laughlin Steel Co. following the death of a welder "do not jibe with the reports from our inspectors."

Shump said the victim, David Tokar of Cleveland, was one of 52 welders at the Cleveland plant who did not have state certification to work on pressure piping systems.

Tokar died in an explosion Jan. 5 while working such a system.

Lowers sentenced

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—D. Don Lowers, whose quick-profit investment scheme collapsed leaving debts of more than $12 million, has been sentenced to 4 to 20 years in prison.

Hospital may lose license

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Renewal of the maternity license for Cincinnati's Good Samaritan Hospital may be withheld by the Ohio Health Department for failure to comply with state standards.

The action was supported Tuesday night by the Cincinnati Board of Health which conducted its own inspection and agreed with the state.

The same action threatens General Hospital, but can be remedied by moving some offices and storage, according to Dr. Arnold Leff, assistant city health commissioner.

The hospital will be in compliance by 1976, following a planned remodeling program. The state seeks compliance with state regulations requiring a specified amount of space for each bed.

Ohio does not license hospitals, but it does license maternity units.

Rotary Club members hear various reports

Members of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club heard various committee reports at the club's mid-year assembly held following the weekly luncheon in the Country Club.

Phil Grover, club president, said that perhaps members could enjoy Rotary Club more if they were more knowledgeable of the club functions. Some of the committee reports led to interesting general discussions.

Milbourne (Pete) Flee, who serves as chairman of the scholarship award committee and the Washington Park Association, spoke on the Rotary Club's program held in May in which outstanding students and athletes are honored. Flee said a new addition to this year's program will include sending invitations to the honored students' parents.

He talked at length on the Washington Park Association, which operates the community swimming pool. Flee said the Washington Park Association is comprised of Rotarians and that the swimming pool has been a Rotary Club project since 1946. There are 775 master memberships sold each year and that there is a long waiting list. The swimming pool employes 31 persons each summer. The discussion of the swimming pool generated conversation on the possibility of establishing another pool here, perhaps an indoor facility.

JIM WARD, chairman of the club's youth committee, explained the World Affairs Institute which is held each year in Cincinnati. Ward said top students from four adjoining states attend the conference and Russia will be the conference topic this year. Ward also mentioned the possibility of establishing a program in which students involved in work-study programs can be singled out with their employers at a Rotary Club meeting.

The Little League baseball fish fry, which is scheduled to be held May 10, was discussed with Rotarians by Lee Lynch, president of the Washington C.H. Little League.

Sheriff Don Thompson, who serves as chairman of the club's safety committee, discussed the possibility of the Rotary Club sponsoring safety films to be shown in the county schools.

The Student Conference on Private Enterprise (SCOPE) was discussed by chairman Bruce Galloway. The SCOPE program is sponsored by the Middletown Rotary Club and is held in March.

Brief discussions were heard from Jack Brennan on the trade and employe relations committee, from Ray Downing on the Four-Way Test committee, from Dr. John Jordan on the World Community Service committee, and from Rollo Marchant on the Rotary Club's foreign exchange program.

Student guests were Steve Deere, of MTHS, and Chuck Oesterle, of WSHS. Visiting Rotarians were Wade Pierce, of Cincinnati, Darrell French, of Wilmington, Dr. Walter Felson, of Greenfield, Fred Trimble and Ed Pennington, both of Mount Sterling, and Milt White, of Columbus.

Lions capture Indians 73-63

Phillips spearheads attack with 30

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Writer

The Washington C.H. Blue Lions, sparked by third and fourth quarter scorings sprees and a 30-point performance from sophomore phenomenon Doug Phillips, rolled to their sixth South Central Ohio League win and back into a tie for top spot with county rival Miami Trace. The victims this time were the cold shooting Hillsboro Indians. Phillips scored eight tallies in each of the first two periods and then cooled off somewhat in the third quarter when he collected only four counters. The 6-3 forward then finished in a flurry, scoring ten points in the final period for his 30 points.

The Blue Lions outscored the Indians from the floor but Hillsboro held a big advantage at the foul line. The Lions hit 33 of 73 floor shots for a good 45 per cent but the Indians connected on just 23 of their 74 field goal attempts for a poor 31 per cent. The charity stripe was dominated by Hillsboro who converted on 17 of 24 free throws while Washington C.H. stepped to the line ten fewer times (14), and consequently made 10 fewer shots (7). Washington C.H. won both the turnover and rebounding crowns when they gave the ball away 15 times to Hillsboro's 11, and picked off a total of 51 rebounds while the Indians crashed the boards 44.

THE FIRST quarter started slow but ended with a flash of point scoring. The Indians drew first blood as they jumped on top 4-0. Then Washington C.H. got the ball rolling and finally went ahead 6-5 on a Phillips 20-footer, a Jeff Wallace turnaround jumper, and a Craig Shaffer outside jumper. The lead changed back to Hillsboro but with the score 10-8 in the Indians favor, Phillips hit three buckets in the space of two minutes to bring back the lead to the Washington C.H. side at 14-10. The lead was short lived, however, as Hillsboro came back and achieved a 19-18 first quarter lead.

In the second quarter, the score was tied five times and the two teams scored an identical 16 points. The largest lead in the second period belonged to the Lions at 24-20 after Phillips had connected on three more quick baskets. From 5:17 in the quarter the lead seesawed back and forth until it changed for the final time with Hillsboro, again leading, this time by a score of 35-34.

The beginning of the third quarter was marred by the cold shooting by both teams. The Indians were the "warmer" of the two, scoring three baskets in the first four minutes of action. Suddenly, however, Washington C.H. regained their shooting ability and proceeded to reel off ten unanswered points on the basis of two Doug Boswell inside jump shots, two Chuck Byrd steals which resulted in two Byrd fast break layups, and a Kenny Knisley corner jumper. The Lions led 50-43 heading into the final period.

THE FINAL period served as the icing on the cake as the Lions churned out 23 points, their highest one quarter output of the year. At the start of the period, the Lions upped their lead to een points. Then after Hillsboro pulled to within eight, Washington C.H. put the game away on another Boswell inside shot and two more Phillips' jumpers. The Lions led by as much as 14 in the final period and then coasted the rest of the way behind a 73-63 cushion.

In addition to Phillips' 30 points, Boswell added 12 tallies, Knisley chipped in with nine counters, and Jeff Wallace and Byrd each contributed six points. The Indians were paced by SCOL leading scorer Kevin Bailey with 22 points, Roger Jewett collected 10 counters, and Dave Larimer who added 9 cantos.

The rebounding crew consisted of Phillips, Knisley, Wallace, and Boswell who pulled down 15,14, 7, and 6 missed shots, respectively. The Indians rebounding was paced by Jewett, Larimer, and Mike Sharkey.

Box score

Score by quarters:

Hil.	19	16	8	20—63
WCH	18	16	16	23—73

HILLSBORO—Jewett (2-6-10); Bailey (8-6-22); Sharkey (3-2-8); Vance (2-2-6); Larimer (4-1-9); Turner (3-0-6); Wharton (1-0-2); Totals (23-17-63).

WASHINGTON C.H. — Phillips (14-2-30); Wallace (3-0-6); Shaffer (2-0-4); Knisley (4-1-9); Boswell (5-2-12); Vess (1-2-4); Byrd (3-0-6); Essman (1-0-2); Totals (33-7-73).

Lion jayvees lose 56-49

The Washington C.H. Blue Lion reserves sank even lower into the depths of the South Central Ohio League as they bowed for the fifth time in league action and the tenth time in all games. This time the villans were the Hillsboro Indian jayvees and the score was a lackluster 56-49.

The game was nothing but an exhibition of each teams' free throw shooting ability. During the game, there was an astronomic total of 49 personal fouls called on both teams. The Indians made 20 of their free shots while Washington C.H. converted on just 13 of theirs.

The Blue Lion scoring was paced by Cliff Dixon and Randy Gardner who scored 13 and 10 points respectively. Eddie DeWees also contributed seven to the Lions score and Randy Sparkman added another five. The Indian attack was spearheaded by Barry Zink who ended the game as the scoring leader with 17 points. Complimenting Zink were Darrell Wilson and Don Marsh who added scores of 15 and 8 respectively. Everyone who played chipped in with at least one rebound for the Blue Lions with DeWees and Gardner collecting the most. The Hillsboro rebounding was done by Marsh, Wilson, and Alan McKenzie.

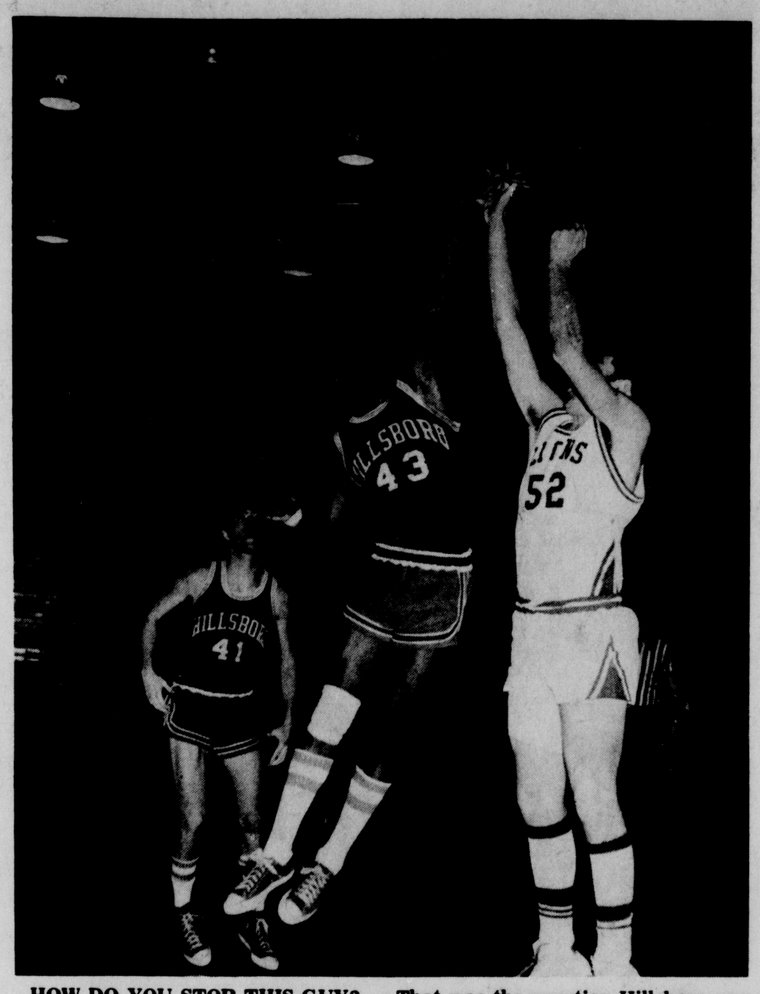

The Lions meet the Madison Plains Golden Eagles at the WSHS gym on Friday night and travel to the MTHS gym to take on Greenfield on Friday, Feb. 1. Game time each night will be 6:30 p.m.

Score by quarters:

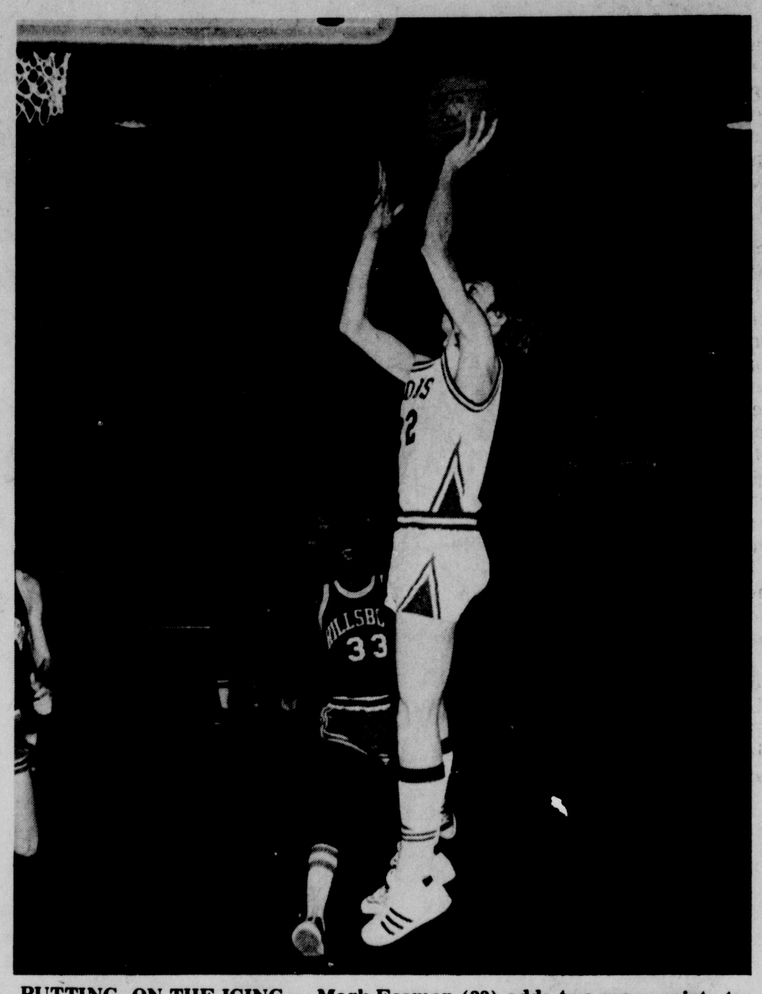

Hil.	15	12	11	18—56
WCH	9	13	12	15—49

HILLSBORO — McKenzie (2-2-6); Marsh (2-4-8); Conley (1-1-3); Gibbs (2-1-5); Fauber (1-0-2); Zink (4-9-17); Wilson (6-3-15); Totals (18-20-56).

WASHINGTON C.H. — DeWees (3-1-7); Dixon (4-5-13); Foster (1-1-3); Gardner (5-0-10); Jamison (0-0-0); Lamberson (1-0-2); Sefton (1-1-3); G. Sparkman (0-2-2); R. Sparkman (1-3-5); Shaw (2-0-4); Totals (18-13-49).

HOW DO YOU STOP THIS GUY? — That was the question Hillsboro was asking Tuesday night as Doug Phillips (52) connected on many shots like this for a game high 30 points. The sophomore sensation led the Lions to their sixth SCOL win 73-63 over the Indians. Attempting to block the shot are Hillsboro's Lawrence Turner (43) and Mike Sharkey (41).

'New' Johnny Bench signs pact

CINCINNATI (AP) — The "new" Johnny Bench, hinting of added maturity and even marriage, willingly scribbled his signature to a contract agreement Tuesday described by his boss as "a first in sports."

Believed to be his second straight $100,000-plus-a-year pact, Bench did not dicker or stage any preliminary negotiations with Cincinnati Reds' President Bob Howsam.

"I told him to fill it in for what he thought was fair and I'd sign it," said the handsome 26-year-old superstar as he approached the start of his seventh season with the Reds.

Howsam, whose shrewd baseball dealings have assembled what some consider a dynasty in the making, said it was an unselfish and unheard of move in this day of high-priced holdouts.

"But that's the way John is," said Howsam. "He's always been first-class. He has faith in the people he deals with and I have faith in him."

"I'm satisfied," said Bench, "and he's satisfied." Bench said he didn't take a pay cut.

Bench signed for a reported $105,000 last year, shortly after lung surgery to explore what was feared to be cancer. A benign tumor was removed.

His performance afield reflected in his statistics. Some said the operation and ensuing grueling schedule sapped him of his power.

In 1972 he was named Most Valuable Player of the National League for leading both leagues in home runs with 40 and runs batted in with 125.

Given rest more frequently, but still appearing in a workhorse 153 games, Bench's mark dropped. His .270 average in 1972 fell to .253, the home runs dwindled to 25. But he cracked the 100-RBI plateau for the third time with 104.

"I wasn't completely satisfied with 1973, but realistically speaking I have to be pleased. A lot of players would like to have that kind of year," said Bench from his plush $50,000-a-year apartment which overlooks the Ohio River.

But there were positive effects from his brush with disaster.

"I think I've slowed down since the operation. It made me aware you can't go hell-bent-for-leather all your life. I was always in a big rush before.

"I'm not trying to catch the wind anymore," laughed the biggest votegetter in All-Star Game history, a No. 2 draft choice in 1965.

And the talk of marriage?

"I think it's probably time I settled down. I said at a banquet the other day that I might get married if we win the World Series this year.

"I mean it. There's no one special right now. I think I've realized you can't play baseball all your life. There are other things that are going to mean much more later on," said the stocky Oklahoman who sprouted a mustache in the off-season and sported a number of foxy flamur gals during his coast-to-coast appearances.

But marriage will have to wait for now.

"We've got to get that elusive World Series title and I feel this is the year. We're a better ball club than before and we've had some great clubs in the past.

"We haven't finished our goal," said Bench.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coach Ron Shumate promised last year to bring championship basketball to the University of Tennessee-Chattanooga, and with three victorious outings last week, the Moccasins have taken over first place in the Associated Press college division poll.

Shumate led the Moccasins to a 21-8 season last year, and so far this year, they're 13-1, with their only loss at the hands of Middle Tennessee State University.

UT-Chattanooga — which defeated West Florida, Georgia State and Mercer last week — received 15 first place votes cast by the nation's sports writers and sportscasters, for a total of 590 points. UT-Chattanooga had been fourth in the poll.

A key to the Moccasins' success this year has been Walter "Moose" McGary, a third string AP Little All-American last year at center who has moved to forward this year. They also are led by Wayne Golden, who averages 18 points a game and is the nation's leading free throw shooter, averaging 87.5 per cent from the line.

Kentucky Wesleyan, which was beaten 90-89 by Drury, dropped to fifth with a 9-3 record. The Kentucky team got three first-place votes and 380 total points.

Alcorn A&M, 14-2 — with victories last week over Southern University, Mississippi Valley State and Grambling — retained second place with nine first-place votes and 498 total points.

Old Dominion moved up from seventh to third, and Fairmont State jumped from eighth to fourth in the poll. Old Dominion, 9-3, had one first-place vote and 421 points, while Fairmont State, 13-0 and the only unbeaten team in the top 15, got three first-place votes and 412 total points.

Jackson State is the only new team joining the top 15. Jackson, which is 15-1 and sustained its only loss to Alcorn A&M, leads the Southwestern Athletic Conference with a 5-0 mark.

Tennessee State, 9-3, dropped from fifth to sixth in the poll with 375 points, and Evansville, 9-4, received two first-place votes but dropped from third to seven with a loss to Old Dominion. Sam Houston State, 13-1, moved from ninth to eighth in the poll, and Augustana, 12-2, plummeted from sixth to ninth. Wittenberg, 11-1, maintained its hold on 10th.

Rounding out the top 15 were Morgan State, which moved from 12th to 11th; Armstrong St., which jumped from 14th to 12th; Jackson State; Midwestern, which fell from 11th to 14th, and Southeast Louisiana.

The Top 15, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records through games of Saturday, Jan. 19, and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

1.	UT-Chatt. 15	13-2	590
2.	Alcorn A&M(9)	14-2	498
3.	Old Dom'n'n(1)	9-3	421
4.	Fairmnt St.(3)	13-0	412
5.	Ky. Weslyn(3)	9-3	380
6.	Tenn. St.	9-3	375
7.	Evansville(2)	9-4	370
8.	Sam Hstn St.(1)	13-1	238
9.	Augustana(1)	12-2	223
10.	Wittenberg(1)	11-1	216
11.	Morgan St.	12-1	177
12.	Armstrong St.	13-3	126
13.	Jackson St.	15-1	92
14.	Midwestern	14-1	91
15.	S.E. Louisiana	8-3	51

Dan Driessen named top 'Reds newcomer'

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Dan Driessen, a rookie whose blazing bat helped key a torrid Cincinnati Reds comeback, was named as the club's Newcomer of the Year by the Cincinnati Chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Thrust into a new position at third base, he responded by hitting .301 while playing in 87 games. He was called up from the Reds farm team in Indianapolis where he was hitting .406.

Larry Bullington top MAC player of week

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Larry Bullington, a Ball State guard who surpassed the high school scoring records of Oscar Robertson and George McGinnis, is the Mid-American Conference Basketball Player of the Week.

The 6-foot-2 senior guard led the Cardinals to a 99-82 upset over Cincinnati with 22 points and five assist and fired in 47 points in a 93-87 rout of Cleveland State last week.

Dick Crum announces trio of assistants

OXFORD, Ohio (AP)—Miami of Ohio's new head football coach, Dick Crum, Tuesday announced the signing of three assistant coaches, including two highly-successful Ohio high school grid bosses.

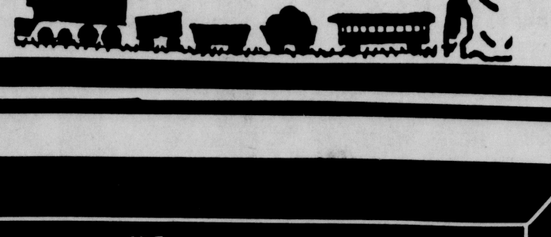

Crum was named Sunday to succeed Bill Mallory who took over at Colorado. Crum said his three new assistants are Denny Marcin, Joe Novak and Tom Stillwagon.

Big Dealer winner

Franklin Heights next

By DENNIS STAPLETON
Record-Herald Sports Editor

There is an old saying that goes something like this. "It's a lot harder going up a mountain than coming down." That may be true when talking about climbing, but in the case of Miami Trace, the latter part of the season might be a lot harder to finish then the first segment.

In the first nine week's of the grueling basketball schedule, the fiery Panthers have played 11 games - won eight lost three - and lead the South Central Ohio League with a 6-win 1-loss record. The last four weeks of cage action have Miami Trace swallowed-up in seven games - five being league contests.

Starting this Saturday when the Panthers host visiting Franklin Heights from the Metropolitan League, Miami Trace plays four weekend games and three Tuesday night clashes. Following Franklin Heights will be another non-loop tussle. The Bishop Hartley game regularly scheduled for Feb. 2 has been moved up to Tuesday Jan. 29. February 1 marks the second Hillsboro game of the season, Feb. 5 is the date of the rescheduled Greenfield match, Circleville is the opponent on Feb. 8, Washington C.H. hosts the second Fayette County feud Feb. 12, and the season ends Feb. 15 against Madison Plains.

SINCE Franklin Heights is the next Panther victim - to be, Miami Trace can't afford to look ahead and neither can we.

The Golden Falcons are currently holding a 5-8 record overall and a 4-6 chart in the Metropolitan League. Leading the Metra League is Teays Valley - rated no. 5 in the Class AA Ohio high school AP poll. Franklin Heights hasn't been having a real good season but neither has it been having a bad season. "We just can't seem to play as a five man team," remarked Falcon head coach Bruce Brown. The 1968 graduate of Pleasant View high school went on to say, "we are in a tough primarily double-A league and our non-loop schedule is also tough. If we could work together as a team, the boys could win some games. Standing around seems to be our biggest problem but that is starting to change as the season has progressed."

Leading the Falcon attack is 6-foot-1 junior forward-guard Larry Ferst. The multi-talented roundballer averages 22 points per game plus grabs 11 rebounds per game. Coach Brown feels that Ferst is undoubtedly a condidate for All-District as a junior and should be an All-State selection next year. All ready this year Ferst has broken the all time three year scoring record at Franklin Heights. According to Brown, the ball wizardry that Ferst displays during a game sometimes attracts the attention of his fellow players and causes them to lose concentration in the game.

FERST'S sidekick in the scoring duties is pivotman Ron Lathem. The 6-foot-3 Lathem averages 12 points per outing and spears 10 rebounds per game. Rounding out the players that usually see action are Cameron Harmon and Mike Blount at guard, Jack Sims at one forward spot and Gary Jordan fills in from the bench at a forward position.

Falcon's operate a run and shoot type game when possible. They utilize the full-court press using their speed and usually play a tight man to man defense. Once the ball is down the court though, a patterned offense is set up rotating around Ferst.

Miami Trace will probably go with the same six players that have been seeing most of the action. Dave Persinger in the middle, Randy Reiber and Jeff King on the sides and Steve Mowery, Dave Steinhauser and Phil Skinner at the guard posts.

MT matmen place second

The Miami Trace wrestlers took second place in a triangular meet Tuesday evening at MTHS against first place finisher Wilmington and third place Hillsboro.

Wilmington outpointed the Panthers 77-63 with Hillsboro finishing third with 53 total points. Panther matman Don Dunton set a new school record for the fastest pin by dropping his man in 15 seconds. The old record was 18 seconds held by Gardner Cobb.

The winners for Miami Trace:

Bruce Fennig — 112 pound — one win.

Gary Cobb — 132 pound — two wins.

Jim Reno — 155 pound — one win and a draw.

Don Dunton — 175 pound — two wins, both by pins.

Greg Detty — 185 pound — one win.

Rick Gleadall — heavyweight — one win by pin.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When General Manager Eddie Donovan and Coach Jack Ramsay revamped the Buffalo Braves during the off-season, they didn't expect instant success — but that's just about what has happened.

The Braves, who won 22, 22 and 21 games in their first three years in the National Basketball Association, won their 25th game of the 1973-74 season Tuesday night, beating the Philadelphia 76ers 119-109.

That boosted Buffalo's record to 25-24 and made this the latest point in any season that the expansion club has been above the .500 mark.

Jim McMillian hit 10 consecutive shots and scored 32 points for the Braves against Philadelphia. Bob McAdoo added 21 points and 14 rebounds and Gar Heard had 20 points and 15 rebounds.

In other NBA games, the Houston Rockets beat the New York Knicks 108-93, the Chicago Bulls topped the Atlanta Hawks 102-89, the Kansas City-Omaha Kings defeated the Portland Trail Blazers 103-96, the Golden State Warriors edged the Capital Bullets 99-97 and the Cleveland Cavaliers nipped the Los Angeles Lakers 111-110 in overtime.

John Ralston honored

NEW YORK (AP) — John Ralston, who gave the Denver Broncos their first winning season, was named today the American Football Conference's Coach of the Year by the Pro Football Writers of America.

Overweight Austrians get warning

VIENNA (AP) — Some 70 per cent of Austrian women and 40 per cent of Austrian men are overweight.

The Austrian minister of health, Dr. Ingrid Leodolter, who revealed this, said something that most Austrians knew anyway by just watching their waistlines.

But the minister, a medical doctor, told a recent news conference that being overweight was not only a problem of appearances but a medical problem as well.

She said overweight leads to diabetes, circulatory ailments and eventually to heart attacks.

The number of heart attacks has increased as waistlines have expanded.

She said that in 1960 about 8,000 Austrians — of a population of over seven million — suffered heart attacks. The figure had increased to 17,000 by 1971. Diabetes cases increased from 7,500 in 1955 to 16,000 in 1971.

The health minister disclosed these figures while presenting a booklet which gives advice on healthy, nonfattening foods. The booklet, published by her ministry, will be available free of charge to every Austrian.

The health minister said she hoped it would help cut down Austrians' weight.

TORONTO (AP) — Metro's subway station at Avenue Road and Bloor Street may soon serve as an extension of the nearby Royal Ontario Museum.

Officials at the museum have been conferring with subway commissioners about the possibilities of displaying museum articles in the subway. It is hoped the station can be transformed into something similar to the Souvre station on the Paris subway where statues, paintings and other art works are displayed.

Opening lead - king of spades.

This deal comes from the 1966 Tournament of Champions played annually in Deauville, France. With Avarelli and D'Alelio of Italy North-South, and Konstam and Harrison-Gray of England East-West, the bidding went as shown.

Gray led the king of spades, on which Konstam played the nine. Ordinarily, the play of the nine—obviously a high-card signal—would constitute a request for West to continue the suit. That is the way almost everyone plays, and that is the way Gray interpreted the nine.

But when Gray led another spade, D'Alelio ruffed and easily made the contract. Had Gray shifted to a diamond, the defense would have won the first three tricks to put declarer down one.

Obviously, Gray and Konstam were working on different wave lengths. Konstam intended the spade nine as a signal for Gray to shift to a diamond—the higher-ranking of the two side suits (clubs and diamonds). This was in accord with the suit-preference convention played by Konstam in such situations.

It can be argued that Gray should have switched to a diamond despite what he thought was a come-on signal in spades, because he could infer from the bidding that South had no more spades.

The answer to this, if we accept Gray's thesis that there can be no suit-direction signal at trick one, is that Konstam was commanding another spade lead because he did not want any other suit played.

But the practical answer is that any pair who agree to play in a major championship should settle in advance the methods of defense they plan to use. It is unreasonable to expect harmonious results when the trombone is playing Sousa and the cello is playing Beethoven.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Skiers! Watch Those Muscles!

Already thousands of people are enthusiastically rushing to the ski slopes, many overextending their bodies after a year of rest from skiing.

Most will return home happy and exuberant, while more than a few will be delayed for weeks, depending on the seriousness of their accidents.

Skiing is an exhilarating sport, but it can be a hazardous one for novices and experts alike who fail to take heed of the basic precautions that make accidents avoidable.

It is imperative that skiers begin the season with progressive exercises at home in order to condition the muscles that have not been used for a year.

As with all other sports there must be no compromise with good, reliable, safe equipment. The investment in good skis, well-fitting boots, and safety bindings pays off dividends at the end of the ski holiday.

It is most important that every skier know his own limitations and take on the more difficult trails very gradually. Horseplay in this sport is a dangerous substitute for courtesy on the slopes. Rules of safety posted by the ski experts must be clearly adhered to.

Every injury to the shoulder, the wrist, the ankle or the knee should be inspected to be sure that no fracture is overlooked. The heroic pretense to deny pain or disability may convert a simple problem into a difficult one.

The joy of skiing is great. It can continue to be a happy experience if its potential dangers are respected.

* * *

An interesting psychological observation was brought to light when a group of 30 children was examined because of extreme and unusual fatigue.

Overexposure to long hours of continuous television viewing seemed to be responsible for restlessness, intense anxiety and poor sleeping habits, in addition to exhaustion.

Scholastic achievements and good health both benefit markedly when outdoor play and physical exercise are substituted for uninterrupted hours of staring at a television screen.

TA WA KI CAMP FIRE

Officers for the remainder of the 1974 school-year were elected Saturday at the meeting of the Ta Wa Ki Camp Fire Girls, Crystal Bell was elected president; Shannon Evans, vice president; Natalie Upthegrove, secretary; and Becky Annon, treasurer.

Meeting times were changed to Wednesday evenings in members' homes. Members discussed the baskets of food given to families at Christmas and the candle sale held in December. Charm bracelets were given as prizes to Becky Annon and Shannon Evans for selling the most candles.

Money-making projects for the year were also discussed, but no decision was reached.

Conspicuous in costume

PRESTON, Lancashire, England (AP) — Soccer fan Barry Levitt learned in court here the importance of being correctly dressed for the occasion.

After throwing a bottle, which narrowly missed a policeman, Barry, 21, ducked back into the crowd.

But policeman Jack Baldwin told the court he had no trouble recognizing Levitt because he was "very distinctively dressed." Levitt had a pair of red panties on his head and was wearing a long embroidered white coat. Levitt was fined 75 pounds — $187.

Ziegler becomes operative again

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, a survivor of highlevel recommendations that he be replaced because he lacked credibility, is back confronting the media again.

"I intend to give more briefings," Ziegler announced Tuesday. He had just surprised the White House press corps by returning to the press room podium after a lengthy absence from regular briefings.

Ziegler's credibility was shaken last year when he declared "inoperative" Watergate-related statements he had made over a period of months.

"Six months is too long to be away from my friends in the press," he told White House reporters with whom he often has been at odds.

Ziegler has not appeared regularly to brief reporters at the White House since last June. As questions about his credibility were raised by the press corps, key Nixon advisers Melvin R. Laird and former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally suggested that he be replaced.

But Ziegler, a former advertising executive with the J. Walter Thompson agency, has survived and been given added stature as a presidential assistant.

While abdicating the briefing podium to his stand-in, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren, Ziegler has surfaced periodically to handle major announcements. He last appeared Nov. 29 when Warren was ill.

Some veteran White House reporters suspect Ziegler is returning because Nixon wants his most trusted press man out front now that the serious issues of impeachment and the possibility of more Watergate indictments are coming to the fore.

Asked why Ziegler was returning, Warren said, "The President thought it was a good idea and Ron wanted to do it."

At a 50-minute Tuesday morning briefing, Ziegler faced a barrage of Watergate-related questions.

One reporter asked: "Do you think your credibility has been restored?"

"I think credibility is always a question that has to be determined by the listener," Ziegler said. He said that in speaking for the White House he has stated the facts as he knew them to be and could speak "in very good conscience."

Asked about a new White House directive that all White House aides report to him on their contacts to the press, Ziegler said the procedure was launched because many news stories have been quoting anonymous White House sources. He said Nixon aides now would "go on the record as much as possible except when it is beneficial to us or to you."

When the briefing was over, the press secretary was asked how he liked getting back into the fray.

"Well, it hasn't changed much," Ziegler replied.

Ohio corn planting to increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Crop Reporting Service had good news for consumers Tuesday when it reported a survey indicated the state's farmers plan to boost 1974 corn plantings by 15 per cent.

Corn is the most important livestock feed grain for producing meat, milk and poultry. This year's crop, to be harvested in the fall, will be a key to those supplies through 1975.

The reporting service's survey showed an intended corn planting of 3.8 million acres in 1974, compared to the 3.3 million last year, while soybean acreage will drop 8 per cent from 3.6 million to 3.3 million acres.

But officials cautioned that actual plantings could be changed by the shortage of nitrogen fertilizer. If the shortage is acute, corn acreage could go down and soybean acreage could go up.

The predicted corn-soybean total was 7.1 million acres, compared to 6.9 million acres in 1973. The net increase of 200,000 acres was only a small part of the 2.5 million additional acres released in Ohio for planting by the federal government.

Officials said part of that additional acreage went to winter wheat. Ohio farmers are expected to increase that planting from 755,000 acres to 1.5 million acres.

The remaining 1.5 million acres of cropland remained undedicated to 1974 crops at the time of the survey, officials said.

Ashland County prosecutor quits

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—Ashland County Republican leaders are to meet next week to pick a replacement for John W. Johnson, who resigned Tuesday as Ashland County prosecutor.

Puglisi cited Johnson for contempt last week for failing to notify the court that he would not appear for trial in a narcotics case. The judge dismissed the charges in that case for lack of prosecution.

Man arrested in dual murder

NEW LONDON, Ohio (AP) — One man has been charged and another is being sought in the shooting deaths of two recluse Ashland County brothers.

Ashland County Prosecutor John Johnson said Hedges' roommate is being sought for questioning.

The bodies of Edward Hooker, 58, and Joseph Hooker, 61, were found Saturday by a neighbor. They had been shot to death and their home ransacked, but officials have not disclosed if any money was taken.

Rain covers wide area

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers and thunderstorms spilled over a broad stretch of the nation's midlands from Texas to Michigan today, turning to heavy snow in the upper reaches.

Up to four inches of snow fell in northeastern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

Near blizzard conditions struck the upper Plains, North Dakota and the northern Rockies. Snow with winds up to 40 miles an hour was expected in North Dakota.
